Gen. McClellan Before Yorktown with the National Army.

The Water Batteries on York River Shelled Out by Our Gunboats.

Gen. Magruder in Yorktown with 30,000 Rebel Troops.

Shipping Point in Our Possession.

Some of the Rebel Outworks Carried.

A Probable Siege of Two or Three Days.

LIST OF CASUALTIES THUS FAR REPORTED.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

The following is a summary of the intelligence received by the War Department up to 10 o'clock to-night:

Yesterday, the enemy's works were carefully examined by Gen. McClellan, and were found to be very strong and the approaches difficult. The enemy was in force and the water batteries at Yorktown and Gloucester said to be much increased. There was sharp firing on the right, but no harm was done. Our forces were receiving supplies from Ship Point, repairing roads and getting up large trains.

It seemed plain that mortars and siege-trains must be used before assaulting.

Another dispatch received at 10½ A. M. states that Yorktown will fall, but not without a siege of two or three days. Some of the outer works were taken.

A dispatch from Gen. Wool states that Gen. Magruder had 30,000 men at Yorktown.

Another dispatch to the Secretary of War states that a new rebel camp was discovered on the beach at the Rip Raps, and was shelled out by Col. Holliday. Several regiments of the enemy's infantry were seen from the Rip Raps during the day.

There were no signs of the Merrimac. A rebel tug was seen making a reconnoissance off Sewall's Point, on the afternoon of Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 7.

On the afternoon of Sunday, Ship Point Battery had been taken, and our gunboats had shelled out the water batteries.

There was considerable delay caused in crossing Deep Creek, at Warwick Court-house, and resistance was made by the rebels, during which several casualties occurred on our side.

All the fortified places of importance before Yorktown had been taken at every point.

The greatest enthusiasm prevailed among our troops.

A fuller account is contained in the following dispatch:

BEFORE YORKTOWN, Saturday Evening.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

That portion of the Army of the Potomac recently concentrated at Old Point, advanced yesterday morning in the direction of Yorktown, twenty-four miles distant. The right was assigned to Gen. Morrill's Brigade, of Gen. Porter's Division, two companies of the Third Pennsylvania Cavalry and a portion of Berdan's Sharpshooters acting as skirmishers. Nothing of interest took place until their arrival at Big Bethel, twelve miles distant, where they met the outer pickets of the rebels. The troops were delayed here two hours in reconstructing a bridge which had been destroyed.

The rebels retreated before the advance of our skirmishers to Howard's Creek, where they had some abandoned earthworks. Four shots were fired here by the rebels from two field pieces which were soon silenced by the Fourth Rhode Island Battery, when the rebels beat a hasty retreat, taking their pieces with them. The main body of the army here rested for the night, while Gen. Morrill's Brigade advanced three miles to Cuckleville and six miles from Yorktown, and then encamped.

By 7 o'clock this Saturday morning, the column was again in motion, and at 10 o'clock was in front of the enemy's works at Yorktown.

The first shot fired was by the rebels, the shell passing over the heads of Gen. Porter and Staff without exploding. The batteries of Griffin, Third and Fourth Rhode Island and Fifth Massachusetts, were now placed in position, replying to every shot sent by the rebels. The cannonading continued, with but slight intermission, until dark. About 400 shots were fired by both parties during the day. The loss on our side was three killed, as follows:

Ed. Lewis and Charles L. Laid, of the Third Massachusetts Battery, and John Reynolds, of the Fourth Rhode Island Battery; wounded, Tim Donohue, in the hand, Freeman Karrio and Charles Tucker, contusion of chest, all of the Third Massachusetts Battery; Sergt. James Wade, of Company C, in the arm, Cyrus Wilcox, Company C, pieces of shell in the leg, and C. W. Peck, of Company F, in the leg, all of Berdan's Sharpshooters.

The position of the rebels is a strong one. From present indications, their fortifications extend some two miles in length, and mount heavy guns. The ground in front of their heavier guns is low and swampy, making it utterly impassable.

[The following important paragraph appeared in the National Intelligencer of yesterday morning. So much information had not been allowed to come over the telegraph wires.—EDS. TIMES.]

"Private intelligence from Gen. McClellan's army, at seven o'clock on Saturday night, announces his advance to Yorktown with three Divisions, and his attack on that position. The bombardment of Magruder's fortifications was progressing well, with very few casualties on our side. The final result will probably be known here to-day."

FROM GEN. BANKS' CORPS.

Crossing of our Troops over Stony Creek—Skirmishing with Ashby's Force, &c.

WINCHESTER, Va., Monday, April 7.

Officers from Woodstock to-day report the bridge over Stony Creek as completed yesterday. To-day our brigades, when crossing, were greeted by a lively canonading from Ashby's battery, but they were dispersed by our guns, and we are now in full possession of his late position. Ashby retiring as usual, taking advantage of every position to retard our progress.

Col. Anisanel, much to the pleasure of the Constitutional State authorities, has been restored to his command of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry.

WOODSTOCK, Va., Sunday, April 6.

The limber box of Daum's Battery, containing one hundred and twenty-five pounds of powder and thirty shells, exploded here yesterday, slightly injuring one man and two horses.

The body of Col. Halliday passed through Winchester, this evening, en route to New-York. While marching from Strasburgh hither, yesterday, he left his command, went into a piece of woods, and blew his brains out with a pistol, on the bank of the river, with the apparent intention of falling into the water.

SKIRMISHING AT EDENBURG.

EDENBURG, Monday, April 7.

Three guns were opened by the enemy to-day, from a new position, upon our pickets. They were responded to by Capt. Huntington's Battery, with a rapid fire. Our shells burst in their midst, scattering them suddenly.

A private in Company F, Thirteenth Indiana Regiment, crossed the river at this place, and fired from his concealment fifteen rounds at a body of Ashby's Cavalry, killing two of them.

Col. Colgrave, of the Twenty-seventh Indiana, detached to guard the supply train to Manassas, returned this evening, having accomplished some excellent marching. The bridge across the Shenandoah, at Castlement's Ferry, broke again on his return. Four mules and a negro woman were drowned.

There has been a snow-storm here.

OFFICIAL NEWS FROM GEN. BANKS.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

There is no material change in the position of the enemy. Gen. Jackson is near Newmarket. Gen. Johnson is at Gordonsville.

A refugee who came in to-day, reports that a thousand Union men in Rockingham County, have taken to the mountains at Elk Run on the Blue Ridge, with a determination to resist with arms their impressment by the rebels. This statement is believed. Gen. Jackson threatens to subdue them by force, which they are determined to resist. The forces in front of Gen. Fremont are retreating toward the Shenandoah Mountains.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO CUT OFF COL. GEARY.

Correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

THOROFARE GAP, Va., April 2, 1862,
Via Baltimore, April 6, 1862.

A rebel force of seven regiments of infantry, two regiments of cavalry, and three batteries, were thrown across the Rapahannock to cut of Col. Geary's command at White Plains. By a forced march they reached Salem, within five miles of the Union band, last evening, with the intention of attacking Col. Geary's command in two columns, cutting off his retreat, and then seizing this formidable Gap to intercept the progress of reconstructing the Manassas Gap Railroad. The attack was to be made at daybreak this morning. Their movements were made secretly, with the intention of making a dash, and cutting the Union command to pieces.

Col. Geary became apprised of their presence and designs, and moved his whole command off quietly during the night, and battled with the mountain roads, wading streams and rivers of mud for five miles, and by daylight occupied this Gap, where he prepared for a resolute and determined stand in the mountain defiles. The movement was a most important one, frustrating a design to accomplish a victory by the destruction of a much dreaded command, to revive the drooping feelings of the rebels in Virginia. The calls were beaten in the evening, and the camp fires left burning as usual, after the command marched.

The chagrin of the frustrated rebel forces can be better imagined than described, in finding themselves outmanœuvred. Although in such superior force, they had not the temerity to follow and attempt an entrance into the rugged defiles here. It is supposed they returned at once to their original position south of the Rappahannock.

One the Union scouts was killed, and three of the rebels were taken prisoners.

GEN. BURNSIDE'S OPERATIONS.

Commander Rowan's Official Account of the Expedition to Washington, N. C.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

The following communication has been forwarded to the Navy Department by Commander Rowan.

UNITED STATES STEAMER LOUISIANA,
WASHINGTON, N. C., March 26, 1862.

SIR: In obedience to your orders of the 20th inst., I proceeded to this place, arriving at the obstructions about five miles below on the morning of the 21st. The naval column consisted of this vessel, the Delaware, Lieutenant-Commanding Quackenbush, and the Commodore Perry, Lieutenant-Commanding Flusser. We were accompanied to the obstructions by the steamer Admiral (army transport) with eight companies of the Twenty-fourth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteers, Col. Stevenson, and a small tugboat. We met with no resistance, the batteries having been abandoned and their armament removed by blasting and other processes.

We soon forced a channel through the piles, though they had been driven very deep, in triple row, and cut off three feet below the surface. At 11 o'clock, last night, we arrived off the town, the Delaware bringing up from the transport the field officers, two companies and the regimental band.

The authorities, with many of the citizens, met us on the wharf, where I briefly explained to them the object of our visit. The military formed, and we proceeded to the Court-house, where, with all the ceremonies, we hoisted the "Flag of the Union." The troops then returned to the Delaware with unbroken ranks.

I found, on further consultation with the authorities on whom I made my demand for the restoration of the Hatteras light property, that underlying an apparent acquiescence of the people of the town and neighborhood, in permitting the building of gunboats and the construction of batteries to repel the approach of the National forces, was a deep-rooted affection for the old Union, and not a little animosity for its enemies, the latter element not being diminished by the importation of troops from a distant State. The result of this state of affairs was, as could be anticipated, the abandonment of its defences by the troops, followed by the destruction of what remained of Confederate property, by the people.

The launched gunboat had been towed several miles up the river, loaded with turpentine and fired the night of our arrival. A few hundred bushels of meal and corn, left in the Commissary store, were distributed to the poor by my orders.

The most valuable part of the Hatteras light property, the lenses, have been taken to Tarborough, but I have hopes of their recovery through the instrumentality of the people of Washington. The rest of the property is secured, with the channel buoys and moorings.

In addition to the batteries on either side of the obstructions, the enemy has thrown up breastworks East of the town, joining and extending half a mile. They also had fortified their camp, which commanded the highroad. A sketch of the river, from the obstructions to the bridge above the town, is inclosed. It includes all the fortifications. The woods and swamps in this and Hyde County are represented as being alive with refugees from the draft. Many of them, encouraged by our presence, came in. They are deep and bitter in their denunciations of the secession heresy, and promise a regiment if called to aid in the restoration of the flag.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. MURRAY,
Lieutenant-Commanding Column.

To Commander S. C. Rowan, Commanding Naval Forces Albemarle and Pamlico Sounds, North Carolina.

GEN. FREMONT'S COMMAND.

Advance of Gen. Milroy to Cheat Mountain and Camp Alleghany.

RETREAT OF THE REBEL FORCES.

WHEELING, Va., Monday, April 7.

A telegram, just received here, informs us that the rebels are retreating before our forces under Gen. Milroy, who has advanced from Cheat Mountain, and now holds Camp Alleghany, lately evacuated by the Confederates.

The rebels have also fallen back from Monterey and Huntersville, and seem to be aiming for Staunton, where they will have a railroad escape.

The Mountain Department is in motion. All the outposts which have been held during the Winter are being still held secure, while a general southeasterly movement of all the main columns has commenced simultaneously with the retreat of the rebels over the mountains eastward.

Bands of bushwhackers are appearing in the eastern counties of this department. Letcher's Legislature has encouraged the raising of a large force for guerilla operations in Western Virginia, and a day or two since, some thirty or forty of them appeared suddenly at Bulltown, Braxton County. They shot a courier, seized the army telegraphic operator, took all his personal effects, cut the wires on both sides of the town, swore him not to reveal anything, and then rode away. There are reports of a large force raising in that county. All such will soon be driven from the mountains by the vigorous measures inaugurated by Fremont, who, although still without reinforcements, is stirring up his Generals to push ahead as fast as can be done safely.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

Maj.-Gen. Fremont reports that Gen. Milroy, with his advance, has occupied Fort Allegheny in person. There is no enemy in Huntersville or Montery. He appears to be retreating to the Shenandoah Mountains.

Gen. Fremont—Division of the Department—Difficulties of the Situation—Gen. Rosecrans.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

DEPARTMENT OF THE MOUNTAINS,
WHEELING, Va., Thursday, April 3, 1862.

Gen. Fremont is stopping at "The McClure House," in this city. He is looking much better than when I last saw him, on his return from "The Hundred Days in Missouri."

This Mountain Department is divided into four sections. That under Gen. Cox is on the Kanawha, that of Milroy in the region of Cheat Mountain, that of Gen. Schenck about Cumberland; that of Gen. Kelley is called the Railroad Division, as he has the care of the Western branches of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The latter is now here, a living refutation of the old adage, "The man who is in battle slain, may never live to fight again." He is, certainly, the best preserved specimen of a killed General that one may expect to find.

If any persons at a distance are inclined to impatience at any seeming lack of activity in this Department, certain things should be borne in mind. It is impossible they should always know, beforehand, how much depends upon the motion of certain circumlocution officers at the seat of Government—that, for instance, of the Adjutant-General of the United States Army.

Gen. Fremont is popularly supposed to be here with his staff, preparing to take the field; whereas, in fact, he has no staff officers here save one, a regular officer of the United States army. A few others, to be sure, are here, and are working without pay, not having as yet received their commissions; others still, whose commissions have been ordered to be made out by the President, prefer not to come until their commissions are received.

Besides this, the whole of Western Virginia is without railroads or telegraphs. It is very difficult to get speedy information from so many distant points, and even the professedly Union men are singularly inclined to be shy in communicating what they know or believe. Gen. Fremont is very prompt to extend telegraphic communication wherever practicable, but much remains to be done by special messengers.

Gen. Rosecrans is here, but being relieved of his command, will probably be called East soon. Whatever his merits as an officer, he is no doubt popular among both citizens and soldiers, and his retention here would meet with general favor.

I hear on the street that there is some talk of Gen Fremont's headquarters being removed to Cincinnati. Whatever foundation there may be for this, it will doubtless not occur until that city, or possibly the State of Ohio, is added to his Department. If the main object of Gen. Fremont's command is simply to hold possession of the region at present occupied, his complement of troops is, no doubt, sufficient. But if important aggressive movements are contemplated, he will need more troops and transportation, both of which Ohio could supply in any quantity. In fact, I hear complaints on every side, of the unfair manner in which Gen. Fremont has been started in his command here. Those who knew the old Department of Western Virginia, are amazed that Buell should have removed Garfield, and his well-known fine body of men, just outside the Mountain Department, thus leaving them quite useless, and Fremont almost without available and moveable force.

I hear the new officers complaining that somebody is withdrawing nearly all the good officers of the "General Staff," who have been here and learned the Department routine.

Dr. Whitney, from Brooklyn, arrived here yesterday, and was this morning sent off to Clarksburgh, Harrison County, with a commission as First Assistant-Surgeon.

IMPORTANT FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.

Crossing of Gen. Pope to the Tennessee Shore.

Another Gunboat Run by the Rebel Batteries.

A Large National Army Ready for Operations Below Island 10.

THE FATE OF THE REBELS SEALED.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

The Secretary of War received dispatches to-day from New-Madrid, which stated that Gen. Pope had just landed on the Tennessee shore. The whole movement had been a grand success.

The General had received a ferry-boat by the new route through the swamps.

Another gunboat had run the rebel gauntlet, and was at Gen. Pope's disposal.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

The following account of the operations at Island No. 10, and in the Department of the Mississippi, was received at 2 P. M.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

The chief operator at Cincinnati telegraphs me as follows:

Commodore Foote got another boat safely past the batteries last night. Gen. Pope is now crossing opposite New-Madrid in force. There is heavy firing in the advance.

The following was received here at 6:45 this afternoon: NEW-MADRID, Monday, April 7—Noon.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Gen. Pope has just landed Gen. Paine's Division on the Tennessee shore. The whole movement has been a grand success. The whole army will be moved over to-day and to-night.

Gen. Pope has four steamers to ferry with, which arrived by the new route through the swamps last evening. Another gunboat arrived this morning from Island No. 10. I will report from the field as frequently as possible.

The latest dispatch from Island No. 10, at 9 o'clock Monday evening, is to the following effect:

"A large force of infantry artillery and cavalry, have crossed the Mississippi within the last six hours. Everything is working well."

A dispatch from Gen. Halleck states that Gen. Sturgis goes to Kansas, and Gen. Craig to the Indian Territory.

Gen. Buell's advanced guard has reached Gen. Grant.

Gen. Halleck will speedily take the field in person.

Hon. Andrew Johnson, Military Governor of Tennessee, reports that the arrests of several prominent persons engaged in the rebellion, have been made; that the Union cause is working well.

CHICAGO, Monday, April 7.

A special dispatch from Cairo to the Tribune, says that the gunboat Pittsburgh ran the blockade of Island No. 10, last night, under a terrific fire from the rebel batteries. Four steam transports and five barges were also got through the Slough, from Phillip's landing, above the island, to New-Madrid, by Col. Bissell's corps of engineers.

This morning, under the fire of our gunboats, which silenced one of the rebel batteries, a company, under Captains Lewis and Marshall, crossed the river at New-Madrid, and spiked the guns. Another force took three other batteries, spiked the guns, and threw the ammunition into the river.

At 11 o'clock, in the face of the fire of the remaining rebel batteries, Gen. Paine, with four regiments and a battery of artillery, crossed the Mississippi, nearer to the Kentucky shore. Subsequently the divisions of Gens. Hamilton and Stanley crossed; also, Gen. Granger with his cavalry. They are now strongly posted, ready for any emergency.

It is believed here that forty hours will decide the fate of Island No. 10.

It is hardly credible, but the reports thus far agree that not a single casualty has occurred during the whole time of the crossing of our troops.

A special from New-Madrid, dated the 6th, says that the gunboat Carondelet has been engaged with the rebel batteries on the Kentucky shore all day.

Between here and Point Pleasant five places fortified by the rebels have been discovered, all placed in such a position as to prevent any attempt of our forces at crossing. The Carondelet and our batteries fired shell with great precision into the rebel batteries, and silenced their guns at one point altogether.

The rebels are making every effort to fortify the Kentucky shore thoroughly. Their guns are 24's and 32's.

The Grampus made her appearance once to-day, but did not, however, come in range. It is thought that the Carondelet can easily silence all the rebel batteries whenever necessary. A detachment was sent ashore from the Carondelet, and spiked the guns and destroyed the carriages of the rebel batteries on the Tennessee shore, opposite Point Pleasant.

A special to the TIMES says:

"Seven o'clock on Friday evening, our forces at Pittsburgh Landing were attacked by two regiments of infantry, with two pieces of artillery and a large force of cavalry. Our forces immediately got into line of battle. The enemy only fired one round, and commenced retreating. We returned their fire immediately, killing quite a number. They killed one of our men. It is supposed they were making a reconnoissance in force. Finding a larger number than they expected, they beat a hasty retreat. Ten prisoners were taken.

The opposing armies are within twenty miles of each other.

Operations in the Department of the Rappahannock.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

Gen. Abercrombie reports that by are connoissance, made last night to the Rappahannock River, a picket guard and a few infantry were discovered occupying what appeared to be rifle pits, and two small redoubts of recent construction covering the forts.

Some of the slaves who have come in appear to be retiring.

THE COMMISSION RELATIVE TO PRISONERS OF STATE.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, April 5, 1862.

The Commissioners relating to prisoners of State now confined in Fort Lafayette, will hold its sittings in the Grand Jury room of the United States Court in the City of New-York, commencing at 10 o'clock on Monday, the 7th instant, and continue from day to day until all the cases are disposed of.

By order of

JOHN A. DIX, Major-General,
Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT, } Commissioners.
E. D. WEBSTER, Secretary.

Parting of Col. Van Alen from His Command.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

RUMORS FROM YORKTOWN.

The city is filled with a variety of rumors to-night about the fight going on at Yorktown. One moment we are startled with a defeat, and the next with a splendid victory. Up to the moment of closing this dispatch nothing is developed by the War Department.

OUR FORCES IN TENNESSEE.

A telegraphic dispatch was received in this city yesterday, announcing that Gen. Mitchell with the forces under his command had reached Shelbyville, Tenn., and had been received with great enthusiasm by the inhabitants of that place.

THE CAPTURES AT NEWBERN.

It appears from official dispatches received at the Navy Department, that when our forces reached Newbern they captured nine merchant vessels, their cargoes consisting in the aggregate of about four thousand barrels of resin, besides, tar, pitch, oil and shingles, nine bales of cotton, &c.

RICHMOND PAPERS.

Richmond papers of the 5th have been received in Washington to-day. They contain extracts from the New-York papers of the 2d inst.

THE MONITOR AND THE MERRIMAC.

The following, in regard to the Merrimac has been received at the Navy Department:

"When she run for Norfolk on Sunday, the 9th of March, in the evening, she had seven feet of water in her hold. One shot from the Cumberland riddled her, and one shot from the Monitor, through her porthole, dismounted two guns. The Monitor put a ball through the boiler of the Patrick Henry, and killed two men and scalded others."

THE SKIRMISH AT STAFFORD COURT HOUSE, VA.

The steamer Freeborn has arrived up from Liverpool Point, bringing some additional particulars of the skirmish at Stafford Court-house. Gen. Sickles' troops captured some forty horses belonging to the enemy's cavalry, and a number of small arms, and the mails in the Stafford Post-office, in which are many letters, some of which will probably be of importance to the Government. Six prisoners were also taken, who were brought up on the Freeborn, and sent up to the Old Capital Prison. As the crew of the Freeborn were getting off the horses, and other property captured, the rebels opened a heavy fire upon them from the thicket, but on the Freeborn returning the compliment with shrapnel, the enemy hastily disappeared.

CONFIRMATIONS, APPOINTMENTS, ETC.

The following confirmations, appointments, &c., were made in and nominated to the Senate to-day:

CONFIRMED—TEMPLE CLARK, Fifth Wisconsin Volunteers, Assistant Adjutant-General with rank of Captain, in Gen. Plummer's Staff.

THE HOUSE AND THE TAX BILL.

The House was engaged all day on the Tax bill, but did not succeed in reaching a vote. The bill, with its numerous amendments made in Committee of the Whole, is printed, and covers one hundred and fifty of the largest-size document pages.

SURGEON-GENERAL FINLAY.

Surgeon-General Finlay was not arrested and sent to Fort Warren, although he supposed himself that such was his fate, as he wrote to a friend, "I am under arrest, and ordered to Fort Warren." He was only deposed, and ordered to report to Boston. This was done, if not upon evidence, at least upon suspicion of disloyalty to the Government.

COMPLAINT OF AN EDITOR.

Augustus F. Boyle, late editor of the Alexandria Chronicle, makes complaint to the Military Governor and the Provost Marshal of Alexandria, that a printing-office and materials lately occupied and held by him, were unjustly seized in Alexandria on the 29th of March last, by one A. H. Hall, who represented himself as an authorized agent of Col. H. K. Viele, of the Ninety-fourth New-York Volunteers. Mr. Hall thought proper to carry away the entire stock of type, and had it exchanged for a new lot, with the view of running the paper to suit the political feelings of Col. Viele, who, according to Boyle, is just now on the eve of offering himself as a Congressional candidate in a New-York District. Mr. Boyle seems indisposed to please Col. Viele in that respect, so makes the complaint referred to.

EXTENSINE FIRE.

An extensive fire broke out here at 5 o'clock, this morning, destroying completely three large buildings, two of them with costly iron fronts, located on Pennsylvania-avenue. They were respectively occupied by Wm. Tucker, dealer in sutlers' goods; Wm. Egan, dry goods merchant, and J. B. Wilson, grocer. The adjoining stores of Cohen & Hoover, dealers in shoes, and Gregory, hardware dealer, were also seriously damaged. Messrs. Tucker, Egan and Wilson are the principal losers in stock. The fire extended to the rear buildings in South-seventh-street, several of them occupied as taverns and restaurant. The origin of the fire is conjectural. The loss is very heavy, but is partially insured.

COL. VAN ALEN'S LEAVE-TAKING.

To-day Col. Van Alen took leave of the Third Regiment of New-York Cavalry by formal resignation, he having been nominated as a Brigadier-General.

MAILS FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

The mails for California, Oregon and Washington Territory are now transmitted overland from St. Joseph, Mo., to which place correspondence can be sent from any Post-office.

On motion of Mr. Lane, of Kansas, (Rep.,) the Senate then went into Executive Session. Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 7.

Mr. White, of Indiana, (Rep.,) offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a Committee of nine members to inquire and report as early as practicable, whether any plan can be proposed and recommended for the gradual emancipation of all the African slaves, and the extinction of Slavery in Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri by the people or local authorities thereof, and whether such an object is expedient and desirable, and that they further inquire and report, whether the colonization of such emancipated slaves on this continent or elsewhere, is necessarily a concomitant of their freedom, and how and what provision should be made therefore; also, that they inquire how far and in what way the Government can and ought equitably to facilitate this object, and that they further be authorized, if in their judgment expedient, to extend their inquiries as to the other slaveholding States, and report thereon.

Mr. Mallory, of Kentucky, (Union,) regarding the resolution as unconstitutional and absurd, moved to lay it on the table. Not agreed to—52 against 68.

Mr. Wickliffe, of Kentucky, (Union,) requested that his name should be omitted in the organization of this Committee, and that as a matter of sound parliamentary practice that no member be appointed thereon who voted for the following resolution, which he (Wickliffe) would read from the Journal:

Resolved, That neither the Federal Government, nor the people of any non-slaveholding State have the Constitutional power to legislate or interfere with Slavery in any State of the Union, and that those persons in the North who do not subscribe to the above proposition are too insignificant in number to excite alarm, and that the increase of such number does not keep pace with the aggregate population of the Union.

Mr. Wickliffe hoped that those who voted for this would decline serving on the Select Committee. [Laughter.]

Mr. Lovejoy, of Illinois, (Opp.,) hoped that the gentleman from Kentucky (Wickliffe) would be permitted to read this resolution every day.

Mr. Wickliffe—I have done no harm. The gentleman (Lovejoy) voted for the resolution.

Mr. Voorhees, of Indiana, (Rep.,) offered a preamble setting forth that the Tariff bill passed during the Extra Session of Congress is unjust and oppressive to the agricultural portion of the country, and concluding with a resolution that the Committee on Ways and Means be instructed to report a bill at as early a day as practicable, repealing said law, and substitute therefor a system founded on the principle of yielding an adequate amount of revenue; and not on that of protecting only the manufacturing interests of the country.

Mr. Stevens, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) moved to lay the preamble and resolution on the table.

Motion carried by a vote of 88 against 35.

The House then proceeded to act definitively on the amendments to the Tax bill heretofore reported from the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

The following are among the amendments concurred in:

The duties and taxes to be assessed in pursuance of this act shall be a lien upon the property subject to the duty or tax, from the time of the assessment until it is fully paid.

The sum of $19,000 heretofore appropriated for the legislative expenses of Nebraska for the year ending 1863, is to be applied as that Territory's portion of the tax.

Tennessee is to have till the 1st of December to assume her portion of the tax.

Distillers of apples and peaches may take out a license for that business for the space of three months on payment of $12 50.

There shall be exempt from restraint the tools or implements of a profession; also, one cow, arms, household furniture, provisions kept for use, and apparel necessary for a family.

Increasing the license of wholesale liquor dealers from $50 to $100.

Any person who peddles jewelry is to pay a license of $25 for each license.

Photographers are to pay $10 for each license, when their receipts do not exceed $500 per annum; when over $500, and under $1,000 per annum, $15 for each license; and when over $1,000 per annum, $25 for each license.

All agents for procuring patents and claim agents shall pay $10 for each license.

Proprietors and agents of all exhibitions or shows not enumerated in this bill, shall pay $10 for each license.

The tax on articles manufactured and sold in pursuance of contracts, bona fide, made before the 3d of March, 1862, shall be paid by the purchasers thereof.

Anthracite coal shall pay a tax of 15 cents a ton, and bituminous coal a tax of one-eighth of one cent a bushel. This was agreed to by a vote of 86 against 30.

The proviso that this tax on coal shall not take effect until the expiration of the Reciprocity Treaty with Great Britain was rejected by 41 against 86.

The amendment fixing a tax of one cent a pound on cotton on and after the first of May next, but exempting all cotton owned and held by any manufacturer of cotton fabrics on and prior to that time, was concurred in by a vote of 75 to 53.

The House also concurred in the following:

On spirits, rectified, mixed with other liquors, or prepared in any way to be sold as whisky, fifteen cents a gallon, and when sold as brandy, rum, gin, wine, or by any other name not otherwise provided for, thirty cents a gallon, on the basis of first proof, and so on in proportion for any greater strength than first proof.

On railroad iron and other iron, according to the state of manufacture, there shall be a tax ranging from one to two dollars a ton, and on steel from four to ten dollars a ton.

The House non-concurred in the amendment that all distilled spirits now manufactured, or that may be manufactured before the 1st of May next, in the United States, shall pay the same sum per gallon, when sold, as provided by this act, upon distilled spirits manufactured from and after that date.

Many other amendments were acted upon, and generally concurred in.

Further consideration of the bill was then postponed until to-morrow, the House having reached the 74th section.

Mr. Roscoe Conkling, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill establishing a uniform bankrupt law.

Pending a motion to make it a special order, the House adjourned.

THE ADVANCE OF GEN. SUMNER.

OUR WARRENTON CORRESPONDENCE.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. SUMNER'S CORPS—LABORS AND HARDSHIPS—A RECONNOISSANCE IN FORCE —BLOWING UP THE BRIDGE OVER THE RAPPAHANNOCK—SKIRMISHING.

WARRENTON JUNCTION, Va., March 31, 1862.

Last Tuesday the greater part of Gen. Sumner's corps took up the line of march toward the region beyond Manassas. Our destination, of course, was all conjecture, except with those who had the matter in charge, and various were the surmises among the troops as to the exact locality where we would "fetch up," as a true son of New-England expressed it. Bidding farewell to Centreville and Manassas, with their numerous villages of rebel huts, their now useless intrenchments, their murky surroundings, (the sacred mud,) and the liberal Seceshers who had fed us on the remains of rebel commissary stores, but in a manner recognized our National Government by receiving for the same some of Uncle Sam's currency, we fell into the long column with deep intent to explore that section of the Old Dominion which, for the twelve-month past, has been as little traveled by Northerners as the region of the head waters of the Nile. We hurried through Manassas, having previously "marked well its bulwarks and examined the towers thereof," and hoped that before our return to its desolate muddiness, that some enterprising rag-picker would visit there, and add to his stock in trade as well as to the cleanliness of the place, by gathering up the extraordinary remains of rebel linen.

Heavy rains have swollen the streams, and by no means improved the naturally bad roads. The clamorous, grumbling, fault-finding, croaking civilians, who, sitting by quiet firesides, look over the smooth surface of a map and howl because the wings of an army do not move as rapidly as the wings of the wind, or who denounce our commanders because their Parrot guns do not, like parrot-birds, fly as well as speak, here would find abundant reasons (if they ever use reason) for changing their tone. The labors of a day's march can only be fully appreciated by being seen. Even when divested—as our army now is—of every article not strictly indispensable, it is a hard day's work that advances an army ten miles in the present state of the roads. The streams are deep from recent rains, and generally rapid. The bridges are destroyed and the fords difficult. In our march to this place, in many instances, the infantry waded the streams, although the water is far from blood-heat, and kept on in the march with their drenched clothes still on them, trusting to the genial warmth of the night's camp fire to dry them.

Such crossings were generally attended with much sport-making, and the cry of Richard (when on another Richmond expedition) for a certain quadrupedal animal, was repeated in style that would have made the Old Bowery ring again.

The bugler of the Sixty-sixth New-York elicited some applause by defiantly dashing in—accoutred as he was—and crossing the turbulent stream to the music of his own trumpet, which, by the way, he blows like another Van Corlear. Gen. Meagher dismounted from his horse, and set his men the example by wading himself. You can be assured that there was then no hesitancy in the Irish Brigade about doing the same thing. But I will not, at greater length, elaborate on the difficulties of marching. I suppose that the same obstacles are everywhere to be found, and I only wish that the noisy grumblers who incessantly complain because miracles are not wrought, had the task of undergoing what an army on the march each day experiences.

We arrived at this place on Thursday, seeing throughout the march occasional glimpses of the enemy's scouts, but not in great force. With the exception of the Northern families who have settled here, and a few Virginians, the farms and houses are left to the mercy of whoever chooses to occupy them. I conversed with Major Snow, of Clover Hill, formerly from New-Hampshire, and learned much about the blessings (?) of secession as experienced by himself and his neighbors. The country, after leaving Manassas, improves in appearance, and many Northern farmers—mostly from New-Jersey—having settled here, they have given this section a thrifty appearance. The rebels have had but few troops quartered here. I noticed a graveyard, however, near where the Tenth Alabama Regiment had been encamped, in which I counted over seventy graves. That number had died in the space of three months.

The citizens here who have deprecated the present troubles have been much harrassed and put to much trouble in order to avoid impressment. When the rebel army left Manassas every horse in the vicinity was pressed into the rebel service, regardless of the necessities of the owners.

Last Friday Gen. Sumner sent out a strong force on a reconnoisance toward the Rappahannock. The object was to drive the enemy across the river and compel him to blow up the bridge, information having been received that it was mined for that purpose. The force consisted of the Fifth New-Hampshire, Eighty-first Pennsylvania, Sixty-first and Sixty-ninth New-York Regiments of Infantry; the Eighth Illinois and Fourth New-York Cavalry, with Capt. Hazzard's and a section of Capt. Frank's Batteries of Artillery. The expedition was placed under command of Gen. Howard, of Richardson's Division. We had advanced but a few miles before our skirmishers fell in with small parties of rebel cavalry who appeared to be watching our movements. They were driven back by portions of the Fifth New-Hampshire and Eighth Illinois Regiments, but made their appearance again at every open space. Occasionally we unlimbered a gun and sent our regards to them in shape of a shell, never failing to disperse them. They retired at safe distance, burning every bridge and tearing up the track in front of us. At every farm-house along the road the smoke and flame of burning hay and wheat-stacks also marked the desolating pathway of the retreating foe. The farmers were (as I afterward learned,) advised by the rebels to leave, carrying with them whatever they, in their haste, could transport. Their stacks and grain were burnt by the rebel troops to deprive us of forage. Our scouts arrived at the village of Rappahannock while the last train of cars was in process of loading. They speedily started off after setting fire to a few remaining cars and to the dépot buildings. By the time the head of the column arrived the buildings broke out in flame, and the rebels had safely passed to the other side of the river.

Three loud explosions announced the destruction of the bridge, and soon the rising smoke revealed the fact that all the bridge timber was also fired. The rebels having taken position on the opposite bank of the river, two Parrott guns were brought to bear on them. They responded with the same number of pieces, and for several minutes the cannonading was quite lively. Their first shots were well directed, but after changing the position of our guns they failed to get the correct range. Capt. Hazzard's Battery (late Capt. Clark's) then arrived, and was placed nearer to the batteries of the enemy, where it did effective service, speedily shelling the enemy from his works and forcing him to a hurried retreat. We met with no loss on the Union side. The rebel loss is only conjectured, but cannot be very heavy, as the force engaged was small, and they stood their ground for so short a time. Some of the New-Hampshire sharpshooters succeeded in killing or badly wounding several of them at long ranges. We took two prisoners, and as one expressed great desire to get in the papers I will give him a place. His name is Alex. B. Ray, of the first Maryland Regiment. He fell asleep through some soporific influence of a spiritual nature, and was awakened by the artillery. Finding himself, like Gen. Scott, between two fires, he wisely laid down again until taken captive by Lieut. Miles. He stated that the force of the enemy at Rappahannock consists of eight infantry regiments, two cavalry, and six pieces of artillery, the last being English guns, brought by the Bermuda. Sergeant McCarty, of the Sixty-ninth, also captured one of the Black Horse Cavalry. McCarty took the first prisoner also at Bull Run. During the skirmishing, Lieut. Miles dismounted from his horse, and the traitorous animal, breaking away from him, ran at full speed into the ranks of the enemy, with all the equipments on him. I observed, however, that the Lieutenant was mounted on a gray charger coming back that certainly was not with the party when we started. The main part of the work of the day fell upon the Illinois Cavalry and Fifth New-Hampshire, as skirmishers, and gallantly did they perform the duty.

Having accomplished the object of the reconnoisance, we bivouaced on the banks of the river, having penetrated this part of Virginia a distance of fifty-two miles from Alexandria. On our return to this place we lost some men, who let their appetites get the better of their duty and judgment. It will prove a wholesome lesson to the rest of the troops, however. The rebels being perfectly posted as to the roads and by-paths, can follow upon the skirts of our army and pounce upon all such stragglers with impunity. The woods hereabouts seem filled with them, and they are aided by farmers who still lurk around here. Wherever they find "two or three gathered together," they are sure to [illegible] in the midst." I have sent you by telegraph the names of all thus captured.

The orders of Gen. Sumner regarding marauding, or as they mildly call it, foraging, are plain, explicit and stringent. Many have paid the forfeit of their disobedience by the loss of their liberty. Others who escape capture, will meet with summary punishment from the General.

Our forces will remain here for a day or two, and then move on the village of Warrenton, the county seat of Fauquier County, and former home of Extra Billy Smith.

Gen. Abercrombie's Brigade, of Gen. Banks' corps, are now at Manassas. Stirring events are soon expected, but time will disclose them.

Three men of the Sixty-first New-York, were wounded on Saturday by a single accidental discharge of a musket. Their names are Frederick Hesselbreuk, wounded badly in the knee; Patrick Martin and John Lyons, both in thigh, flesh wounds. They belonged to Company D.

Heavy firing was heard here on Saturday in the direction of Fredricksburgh. The telegraph is now completed to this place, and the railroad repaired to Bristol station, seven miles from Manassas.

The Navy Department and the Escape of the Nashville.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your paper of the 3d inst., I notice a statement of facts in reference to the escape of the Nashville, which the writer thinks vindicates the Department. This statement furnishes conclusive proof of the justice of the condemnation of the Department so universally expressed by the public. It appears that the arrival of the Nashville at Beaufort was known to the naval authorities at Washington on the 6th of March. She escaped on the 18th; thus leaving an interval of twelve days, during which to provide for an effectual blockade of the port. What was done? The statement says that they wrote to Capt. Marston, who was in command at Hampton Roads, under date of March 6, as follows: "The Department is unable to learn what measures you can take to keep the Nashville in Beaufort, but they should be characterized by energy," &c., &c.

This is a full admission that the Department were entirely ignorant whether there was a vessel-of-war out of port which could be relied upon for the emergency, and it further appears that there was not one in port which was in readiness for sea. The Department telegraphed to Boston and Baltimore for gunboats, but they were all either unfinished or in need of repairs, and, "notwithstanding the efforts made," none of them were got off in time, and the earliest arrival off Beaufort was on the day after the Nashville had escaped.

It was perfectly practicable to have had two vessels on the way to Beaufort within forty-eight hours after the news of the arrival of the Nashville at that port reached Washington. The Vanderbilt, Arago and Illinois, and other sea steamers, were lying at New-York, and ought to have been fitted out at once. The Quaker City and Monticello were chartered by the Union Defence Committee, and got in readiness, and at their instance, were armed and equipped at the Navy-yard, and dispatched in about thirty-six hours—the former being then under command of the gallant Capt. Mather, (who lately fell while fighting for the Union in Florida, under Dupont.)

The same thing could and ought to have been done by the Navy Department in this new emergency.

The Department claims to have done as well as it could to keep the Nashville in Beaufort, but, after all, she got out. That this should have been permitted, when it was obviously in its power to have prevented it, no one who is competent to judge of the matter will for a moment contend.

The moral effect which must naturally be produced, both at home and abroad, by the escape of the Nashville, should have warned the Department to put forth extraordinary exertions to prevent such a disaster. I have no desire to do injustice to anyone, but we are engaged in a war whose success depends, very much upon the vigor and efficiency of the Navy Department; and as a seafaring man, who has had an experience of more than half a century in ships, steamers, and all other seagoing craft, I must say that the administration of that Department does not seem to me to have been marked by that sagacity, foresight and energy, which the exigencies of the country at this time imperatively demand.

Permit me in conclusion to warn the Department against a similar disaster from the Merrimac, to that which took place on the 7th of last month, by which some 150 brave tars were sent to their final account in the twinkling of an eye. The eyes of the whole nation are turned in that direction.

Very respectfully, yours, C. H. MARSHALL.

NEW-YORK, April 7, 1862.

Proceedings in the Oyer and Terminer.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before Justice Barnard.

The April term of this Court was opened yesterday morning, and the following Grand Jurors were impanneled:

W. A. Searing, Foreman; William Adams, Charles Breusing, Charles S. Francis, Fletcher Harper, Jr., Henry Lewis, F. Lawrence, Edgar Stansbury, Wm. F. Skiff, Orrin Terry, E. M. Banks, Elias Dexter, Maurice Eilger, Wm. B. Hook, Abram Ludlam, C. E. Leveridge, Geo. R. Sheldon, Oliver Strong, John M. Gilford.

As it was not expected that a quorum of the Grand Jury would be present, no business had been prepared for the first day of the term. Upon the suggestion of the District-Attorney the charge to the Grand Jury was postponed until to-day. The Grand Jury were then sworn, and discharged accordingly.

Mr. Hall stated that the trial causes would not be proceeded with until Monday next.

The civil calendar will be called the first and fourth week of the term.

The Court announced that no petit jurors would be excused from serving without the certificate of a physician in respect to health was accompanied by an affidavit of the applicant.

Unauthorized Levies—Verdict Against a Constable.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Hoyt.

Benjamin C. Gale vs. Henry Zulck and Conrad Reuss.—This was an action for the wrongful taking and detention of furniture belonging, as alleged, to the plaintiff.

The defence set up was, that in December, 1859, Zulck recovered a judgment against a Mrs. Morgan, and that the property in suit was levied upon under an execution issued pursuant to that judgment and placed in the hands of Reuss, who was, at the time, a constable, and who made the levy—Zulck claiming that the levy was made without any agency of his own, and without his authority.

Evidence was introduced to show that Mrs. Morgan had mortgaged the property seized to the plaintiff, but that it remained in her possession. The mortgage was attached by the defendants, who claimed that it was merely an evasion, and not a genuine transfer or instrument, as the possession of the property was not changed.

The Court charged the jury that the fact that the property remained in the possession of Mrs. Morgan, did not necessarily render the mortgage void. The Court left to the jury the question of responsibility, as to the levy, and it was determined by their verdict, that Reuss, the constable, acted without authority from the judgment creditor Zulck, and that he was, therefore, alone responsible. Verdict accordingly, assessing the value of the property at $149, and giving the plaintiff six cents damages.

James A. Culver for plaintiff; Solomon L. Hull for defendants.

A General Transfer, and What Came of It.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Hilton.

Thomas E. Stewart, Receiver, vs. Anson J. [illegible] et al.—This action was brought by the plaintiff as receiver, in proceedings supplementary to execution, to set aside as fraudulent and void, a transfer of a stock of hardware, and a deed of real estate in Twenty-fourth-street, in this City, executed by the defendant, Colt, to Charles Goodyear, Jr., May 25, 1861, which expressed a consideration, as alleged, of $1. The bill of sale of the personal property expressed a consideration of $3,500, and was executed on the 23d of May, 1861.

Evidence was offered to show that Goodyear was a son-in-law of Colt, and that at the time of these transfers Colt was insolvent, having actually failed in business. The plaintiff contended that the consideration expressed in the bill of sale of the stock was inadequate, and that, in fact, no consideration whatever was paid by Goodyear. Also, that no consideration was paid for the real estate, and that both transfers were made to hinder, delay and defraud creditors of Colt.

The defendants denied the allegations of the plaintiff, and offered evidence conflicting with the plaintiff's proofs.

The Court held that the transfers were void, and adjudged that the defendant deliver over the property to the plaintiff, and account to him for the value or proceeds of any portion of the property which may have been sold by the defendant, Goodyear, in good faith, under the direction of Bartholomew O'Conor, Referee.

T. E. Stewart and J. A. Crain, for plaintiff; Niles & Bagley, for defendants.

Interesting to Hardware Dealers.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Before White, J, and a Jury.

Alfred Field et al. vs. James H. Banker.—This was an action brought to recover the value of certain chains purchased by the defendant from the plaintiff's house of Field, Ibbottson & Co., at Liverpool, which chains were shipped on board the Isaac Wright, and were destroyed by the burning of that vessel in the River Mersey, Dec. 23, 1858. In consequence of the neglect of the plaintiff to notify the defendant of the shipment of the chains, he was prevented from obtaining any insurance, and consequently refused to pay for them, claiming to have been discharged by such neglect.

The defendant offered to prove that, by the custom of parties engaged in the hardware trade, persons in England shipping goods for New-York purchasers, were bound to notify them of such shipment.

The Judge excluded such evidence, holding, as matter of law, that they were bound to give notice of shipment, with reasonable diligence, to the purchaser; but that evidence to show a custom so to do was irrelevant.

The Jury were directed to bring in a sealed verdict.

Charles Jones, for plaintiffs; A. R. Lawrence, Jr., for defendants.

Legal Notice.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Justice Barnard.

Judge BARNARD, on the opening of the Court yesterday, made an order that hereafter no cause would be postponed on account of the engagements or sickness of counsel, and that in case of the absence of a material witness, the cause would only be postponed till the return of an attachment.

That when cases were on the day calendar they must be tried or referred, or they would be sent to the foot of the calendar.

On Wednesday, Margaret Smith, a servant in the employ of Mrs. Capt. Lucas, was tried and convicted of robbing her employer, and remanded for sentence.

THE REVISED CODE.

REPORT.

To the Legislature of the State of New-York:

The Commissioners of the Code, appointed by the act of April 6, 1857, beg leave to make this, their fifth report:

It will be remembered that the work with which the Commissioners were charged, was to prepare and submit to the Legislature a Political Code, a Civil Code and a Penal Code; the first to embrace the laws respecting the Government of the State, its civil polity, the functions of its public officers, and the political rights and duties of its citizens; the second to embrace the laws of personal rights and relations, of property and of obligations; the third to define all the crimes for which persons can be punished, and the punishment for the same. The Codes of Civil and Criminal Procedure having already been prepared and reported to the Legislature in 1850, by the Commissioners on Practice and Pleadings, the general design was to form, out of the labors of the two Commissions, in obedience to the Constitution, a written and systematic Code of the whole body of the law of this State.

The first report which the Commissioners had the honor to make to the Legislature, was presented on the 27th of February, 1858. With that they submitted a general analysis of the three codes which they were to prepare.

Their second report was presented on the 31st of March, 1859, setting forth the progress made by them to that time, and informing the Legislature that they had made a draft of the Political Code, and submitted it to the Judges and others, for examination.

On the 10th of April, 1860, the Commissioners presented, with their third report, the Political Code complete, having revised it, after receiving suggestions from those to whom the draft had been submitted.

By an act passed in the session of 1860, the Commissioners were requested to prepare and submit to the Legislature a Book of Forms, adapted to the Code of Procedure. This work they performed, having first prepared a draft, distributed copies for examination, and then revised and reported the work complete. This was submitted to the Legislature with their fourth report, on the 30th of March, 1861.

They have now prepared a draft of the Civil Code, of which they are distributing copies among the judges and others, for examination. A copy is herewith transmitted to the President of the Senate, and to the Speaker of the Assembly.

This draft, the result of much labor, may be regarded rather as the outline of a code, than as a code completed, or perhaps as a collection and arrangement of materials for the preparation of a Code, which, when finished, is intended to embrace all our laws, whether written or unwritten, concerning personal rights and relations, property and obligations, and establishing general principles. What is new will of course be understood as mere suggestion, to which even the Commissioners themselves are not committed, but which is thrown out for the consideration of those most competent to judge.

All which is most respectfully submitted.

DAVID DUDLEY FIELD,
WILLIAM CURTIS NOYES,
ALEXANDER W. BRADFORD.

MONDAY, April 7—P. M.

The Weekly Averages of the Banks of the City of New-York, on Saturday, April 5, 1862, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of March 29:

| | |
|---|---|
| Decrease in Loans | $544,146 |
| Increase in Specie | 922,580 |
| Increase in Circulation | 941,328 |
| Decrease in Undrawn Deposits | 345,446 |

Including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including also the Sub-Treasury specie average of the week, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

| | April 6, 1861. | April 5, 1862. | March 29, 1862. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Capital | $69,307,000 | $69,051,000 | $69,051,000 |
| Loans | 122,113,496 | 124,477,484 | 125,021,630 |
| Specie | 41,705,558 | 33,764,382 | 32,841,802 |
| Circulation | 8,930,141 | 7,699,641 | 6,758,313 |
| Gross Deposits | 115,406,088 | 112,578,197 | 112,256,976 |
| Exchanged | 20,546,276 | 17,495,572 | 17,828,905 |
| Undrawn | 94,859,810 | 94,082,625 | 94,428,071 |
| In Sub-Treasury | 8,486,494 | 5,858,591 | 4,450,701 |

The Bank return shows a considerable addition to the Specie line, and, also, to the average Circulation. The latter is rapidly returning to the point at which it stood when the Banks suspended payments in Gold at the close of last year. As their circulation may now be redeemed on peremptory demand, in United States Notes, the same as in Gold, no hazard is incurred by supplying the demand for it. Many of the Country Banks of New-York have wholly exhausted their own circulation, and applications are daily made to the Money Brokers in Wall-street, for an additional supply of Currency upon other Banks. Of this demand some of the City Banks have probably availed themselves. The average of Loans and Discounts is comparatively steady. There is less inclination to decrease the sums loaned last Fall to the Treasury on Government Stocks and Treasury Bonds. The Deposit line is also steady.

The market for Money is easy to-day, at 6 ℘ cent. as the rule to the Brokers, though 7 ℘ cent. continues to be paid on miscellaneous collateral in a good many instances. The market for Gold is up to 102⅛@102¼, and Exchange on London advanced before the close of business to 112⅞ ℘ cent. The demand for both was to a considerable extent of a speculative nature. This feeling pervades nearly all departments of the Stock and Money affairs of the Street, on the calculation that the increased volume of United States Notes, as the lawful standard, will gradually work a change in market values. How far or how soon this theory is to be realized, it would scarcely be safe to predict, after the experience of the past Winter with the first $60,000,000 issued by the Government. But that a speculative spirit pervades the Street to-day, either from this cause, or the prospect of an early end to the war, or from both combined, there is no question.

There was a stronger market for stocks to-day, than we have been able to report for a week or ten days past. The feeling of confidence in regard to the pending War news from Virginia and the Southwest was increased by the telegraphic advices in the morning papers, and by private letters from the seat of Government. But in addition to this cause for the improvement, is the belief that the infusion of the $90,000,000 United States Notes into the Currency will add to the present ease and cheapness of the Money market, and impart additional strength to the Government Funded Stocks. These Stocks of 1881 were higher to-day by ⅛@¼ ℘ cent., and a heavy business was also done in the United States Treasury Certificates of 1863, at 96⅛@96¼ ℘ cent. In sympathy with the National Securities, the demand for the Border State Stocks further recovered ¾ ℘ cent. on Missouris and ½ ℘ cent. on Tennessees. Nearly $200,000 were taken up at this improvement, and more bid for at the close of the Second Board. The Railway Share list was buoyant at a rise of ⅛@⅜ ℘ cent., and in some instances the advance was 1 ℘ cent. as compared with the average sales of Saturday. The New-York Roads were the favorites, Central selling at 83⅛@¼, and Erie at 37⅛ ℘ cent. The Westerns were in request for nearly all descriptions. The common shares of the Prairie du Chien Road rose 2@2½ ℘ cent. Pacific Mail was ½@¾ ℘ cent. higher, and the same rise was bid on Panama, without eliciting much stock. The Second Board in the afternoon left off quite buoyant.

Late in the afternoon, the market showed continued firmness, and on some descriptions a further rise in prices. For United States 6 ℘ cents of 1881, 93 ℘ cent. was bid for the coupon issue. Pacific Mail sold at 99½; Gold, at 102¼; New-York Central, at 83⅛; $50,000 Missouris, at 51, and there was a further rise of ½ ℘ cent. on Prairie du Chien shares—sales being made as high as 27½ ℘ cent.; Erie closed 37⅛ ℘ cent.; Erie Preferred, 61⅝@⅞; Galena, 68⅝@⅞; Michigan Southern, 22⅞@23; Guaranteed, 46⅞@47.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The War Department has given forth a summary of the intelligence received from the neighborhood of Yorktown up to 10 o'clock last night. On Sunday the enemy's works were examined and found to be strong and the approaches difficult. There was sharp firing upon our right, but it is said no harm was done. Another dispatch, at 10½ o'clock, says that some of the outworks had been taken; but that the city could not be taken without a siege of several days. Gen. WOOL states that the rebel MAGRUDER has 30,000 troops. The latest intelligence announces that on the afternoon of Sunday Shipping Point was taken, and the gunboats had shelled out the water batteries. Resistance had been made by the rebels at our crossing of a creek, and several casualties occurred. All the fortified places before Yorktown had been taken by our troops, and the army was full of enthusiasm.

From Gen. BANKS' command, we learn that the bridge over Stony Creek, at Woodstock, was captured on Sunday, and that our troops crossed over upon it, greeted by a lively cannonade from ASHBY'S battery. The rebels, however, were soon driven away, and our forces, at last accounts, occupied their late position. There had been some skirmishing at Edenburg, but nothing of importance had occurred.

From the Mississippi the news this morning is extremely important. The Secretary of War has received dispatches announcing that Gen. POPE has landed on the Tennessee shore, the movement being a grand success. The General had previously received a ferry-boat by the new route cut through the swamps, and another gunboat had run the rebel gauntlet, and was at his disposal. We shall now soon hear the last of the rebels at Island No. 10.

Operations have begun in the department of Gen. FREMONT. A telegram from Wheeling advises us that Gen. MILROY has advanced from Cheat Mountain to the rebel Camp Alleghany, and that the rebels there and at Huntersville and Monterey have fallen back. Other of our columns in the Mountain Department are said to be moving. Bushwhackers are appearing at different points, but they will soon be brought into subjection by the rigors of martial law.

It is said that ASHBY'S rebel cavalry have returned to the vicinity of Romney, west of Harper's Ferry, with the idea of carrying on a guerrilla warfare in the mountain fastnesses of that region.

The Nashville papers of April 2 state that Hon. W. L. YANCEY made a speech some days ago at Chattanooga, while on his way to Richmond. It was chiefly a repetition of what he said at New-Orleans. He referred to his reported capture, and remarked that the best proof of its unfounded character was his presence before his audience. Furthermore, he said, he had not only got in safe himself, but a considerable supply of arms had been received.

The refugee named MORGAN who told such startling stories a few days ago through the Chicago Tribune about the Union feeling in New-Orleans, and the fleet of gunboats in course of construction on the Mississippi, has been arrested as a spy by order of Gen. HALLECK. The proofs of his guilt are indubitable. During the last two months he has passed between Cairo and Memphis four times.

Not many weeks ago the rebels expelled the venerable Judge CATRON from Nashville, for persisting so firmly in his loyalty to the National Government. He is now about to return to that city to try for treason the individuals who maltreated him.

The Committee appointed by Gen. HALLECK to investigate the condition of the prisoners of war at Alton, Ill., has made its report. The total number confined there is 791, including 5 Colonels, 2 Lieutenant-Colonels, 3 Majors, 18 Captains and 22 Lieutenants. Of the entire number, 459 were taken at Pea Ridge, 130 at Fort Henry, a number at Milford and the rest were bridge-burners, &c. Their quarters, rations and hospital arrangements are all that could be desired.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, a report was made from the Military Committee, authorizing the President to transfer the appropriation made for fortifications to the building of iron-clad gunboats. The Confiscation bill, introduced by Mr. TRUMBULL, of Illinois, was taken up, and Mr. TRUMBULL made a long argument in favor of its passage. Mr. HARRIS, of New-York, announced his intention to introduce a substitute, and the subject was postponed until to-day. The Senate then went into Executive session, and subsequently adjourned.

In the House, a resolution was introduced by Mr. WHITE, of Indiana, providing for the appointment of a Committee of nine to inquire and report as early as practicable whether any plan can be proposed and recommended for the extinction of African Slavery in the Border States, whether the emancipated slaves can be colonized, and whether the Government can facilitate these objects,—with power to extend their inquiries so as to embrace the other States where Slavery exists. Mr. MALLORY, of Kentucky, moved to lay this resolution on the table as unconstitutional and absurd, but the motion was voted down. The resolution was then passed, 67 to 52. A preamble and resolution looking to the speedy repeal of the Morrill Tariff were introduced by Mr. VOORHIES, of Indiana, but they were laid on the table, 88 to 35. The House then proceeded to act definitively upon the amendments of the Tax bill adopted in Committee of the Whole, and got as far as the 74th section, when further consideration was postponed until to-day. A bill establishing a uniform Bankrupt law was reported from the Judiciary Committee, by ROSCOE CONKLING, of New-York, and pending a motion to make it a special order, the House adjourned.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, among the bills passed was the one authorizing the Governor to appoint persons to take acknowledgments of deeds in Great Britain and France, and the one making an appropriation for the payment of the State's quota of the direct tax to the National Government. The bill to provide for the examination of the accounts of the Treasurer and other State officers was made the special order for this evening.

In the Assembly, the bill to provide for the payment of the expenses incurred in the organization and equipment of troops was ordered to be reported complete. An adverse report was made from the minority of the special Committee on the Metropolitan Health bill. The bill to create the office of Commissioner of Lunacy was ordered to a third reading. The bill to provide for the enrollment of the militia, for the organization and discipline of the National Guard of the State, and for the public defence, was read a third time and lost—22 voting in favor of it, and 44 against it. The House then found itself without a quorum, and took a recess.

GENERAL NEWS.

By the arrival at Portland of the steamship Hibernian, we receive advices from Europe five days later than were brought by the Niagara at Halifax. She left Liverpool on the 27th, and Londonderry on the 28th ult. The proceedings of the British Parliament had not been of special importance. Mr. GREGORY had called attention to the case of the British steamer Labuan, captured by our blockading fleet off Galveston, and Mr. LAYARD, in behalf of the Government, had stated that measures had been taken to ascertain the facts in regard to it. The British Press continued to comment upon President LINCOLN'S emancipation Message. The Sumter and Tuscarora were still at Gibraltar. The deaths of Prince WINDISCHGRATZ and Count NESSELRODE are announced. It is stated that the Spanish Government has ordered Gen. PRIM not to negotiate with the Mexicans until the troops shall have entered the City of Mexico. This will necessitate a breaking of the treaty arranged between PRIM and DOBLADO at Soledad, a short time ago. GARIBALDI was making a tour through Lombardy to stir up the young men to join the volunteer corps. Demonstrations were reported to be becoming quite frequent in Venetia, and numerous arrests were being made. Cotton is reported dull but firm, with an advance of ⅛d. on middling grades. Breadstuffs were very dull, and Provisions quiet. Consols were quoted at 93⅞ on money.

We have advices from Mexico to the 23d ult., by way of Havana, from which port the steamship Roanoke arrived last night, having left on the 2d inst. The most important intelligence is the announcement that President JUAREZ had ordered a forced loan to be collected from a number of merchants at the Capital, some of whom were Spaniards, and that a protest had been made against it by the Allies. A persistence in the collection of the loan would, it was believed, lead to the immediate commencement of hostilities. The Allied troops had advanced to the positions assigned them during negotiations. The news from Havana is not of special importance. There were still occasional arrivals of small craft with cotton from the blockaded ports.

The Connecticut State election, which took place yesterday, resulted in the reëlection of Gov BUCKINGHAM by a very largely increased majority over last year.

Major WM. H. POLK, of Tennessee, brother of the late President POLK, and a strong Union man, had a long interview with President LINCOLN yesterday morning.

In a card to the Wheeling Intelligencer, Gen. ROSECRANS explicitly denies that he has thought of resigning, or that he objects to serving under Gen. FREMONT. He expresses the opinion with reference to Gen. FREMONT, that "if a General is fit to hold his commission, he ought to have his command."

The Germans of Chicago have inaugurated a movement to purchase a homestead for Gen. SIGEL, and to present him with a sword—not one of honor, adorned with gold and jewels, but of plain steel, which shall have engraved on its blade, "The Germans of America to their first combatant." The homestead is to be purchased in that State the German citizens of which shall subscribe most liberally to the fund.

Gov. WASHBURNE, of Maine, positively declines to become a candidate for reëlection to the office which he has filled for the last two years.

Gen. DUMONT has been assigned to the command of Nashville. His district extends as far as Columbia and Murfreesboro to the south, and to Munfordsville on the north.

There is said to be a great deal of sickness among the troops under Gen. GRANT'S command. Most of it, however, is of a mild type, and readily yields to treatment.

There was no meeting of the Board of Aldermen last evening, a quorum not being present. The Board of Councilmen held their regular meeting, and among the petitions presented was one from property owners on Greenwich-street, below Canal, asking the removal of the rails laid there and not used, which was referred, with instructions to report at an early day. A resolution to prepare and present a stand of colors to Col. FERRERO'S (Fifty-first) Regiment was unanimously adopted; the colors now borne by them being completely riddled with balls at Roanoke and Newbern. Beyond the above the business transacted was routine and unimportant.

The City Inspector reports 455 persons as having died during the last week, of which 105 were men, 81 women, 165 boys, and 104 girls, being an increase of 49 over the previous week.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer opened yesterday, but adjourned until to-day, without taking up any cases on the Calendar. The Grand Jury will receive their charge to-day. A case of some importance to constables and judgment creditors, respecting levies without indemnity, was determined at the Circuit of the Supreme Court yesterday, before Justice HOYT, by a judgment against the constable for the value of the property unwarrantably seized.

The Stock Market was stronger yesterday, and closed at an advance of ½ ℔ cent. on United States Stocks, and ½@¾ ℔ cent. on the Railway Shares, as compared with Saturday afternoon. Gold was also firmer, closing 102¼, and Exchange rose to 112¾ ℔ cent.

Business in Breadstuffs, yesterday, was restricted. Prices of Flour tended downward. Wheat was quoted steady. Corn was stiffly held. A limited inquiry prevailed for Cotton, Fruit, Hops, Metals, Oils, Rice, Spices and Foreign Liquors. Provisions were rather quiet, though generally unchanged in value. Java Coffee, Sugars, Tallow and Whisky were in fair request at uniform rates. Resin and Spirits Turpentine attracted more attention and were quoted higher. The freight market was depressed and rates were lower.

THE STEVENS BATTERY.—It is to be regretted that the appropriation for the completion of this vessel was left dependent by the Senate, upon the decision of the Secretary of the Navy. This will certainly occasion delay, since, as the Secretary has not only never been called upon to investigate the subject, but has expressed his entire ignorance about it, he would of course take advice, perhaps of a Committee who would sit several months. The success of the Stevens Battery has been decidedly pronounced upon by a large number of experts in every branch of marine engineering, and it is to be hoped that the House will avail themselves of this information, without delaying the completion of a vessel so sorely needed, in order that another set of examiners may make their report. It is undoubtedly important that every member of the Department and of the Senate should have the opportunity of going over the usual round of inquiries concerning the Stevens Battery; but the question of completing the vessel and putting her into commission on the ample evidence already before Congress, would seem to be more timely, just at this juncture of our affairs.

Reconstruction in Virginia.

The reduction of Virginia to the National rule, which now bids fair speedily to happen, will be a most important step, not only in the progress of our arms, but in disclosing the degree of resistance we are to encounter in restoring the status ante bellum. Eastern Virginia is as antagonistical to the spirit of our institutions, and to a true nationality, as South Carolina; while her commanding geographical position, her vast resources in spite of their negligent culture, the important part she played in the drama of the Revolution, and in the formation of the Government, had secured to her such an hereditary prestige that she exerted more influence in National affairs than a half a dozen States of equal population. All this had pampered a pride that brooked no restraint, while she fancied that she possessed a power commensurate with her natural gifts. In these Virginia, more than any other member of the Confederacy, is an imperium in imperio. The fertile imaginations of her people were never weary in looking forward to, and in expatiating upon the wealth, numbers, commercial and manufacturing greatness, that were to be realized in a future, in which Norfolk was to supplant New-York, and the James River and Kanahwa, the Erie Canal. In South Carolina we had to contend with caste, which Slavery creates in its most perfect form. A few families had come to monopolize both the soil and labor of the State. Their ambition stopped at the ostentatious display of a long roll of serfs and of wide domain. They had the quiet demeanor that belongs to persons conscious of their wealth, and of the secure tenure by which it is held. The State had no harbors—no coal nor iron—no elements to which the inductive spirit of modern progress could attach itself, and plant, as in Massachusetts, populous and thriving communities upon sterile plains. Its people were not avaricious of political power, because they had few objects to which it could be directed, and were modest in their demands, for the very good reason of a conscious inability to enforce them.

Not so Virginia. We find concentrated here every refractory element that aided to bring on the rebellion. Virginians have always taken the lead in all the speculations and theories of the South, not only in reference to the Government, but to the peculiar institution. Of all Southerners they are most opinionated and fanatical. Their hatred to the North is heightened by immediate contact of territory, which, of course, threatens violent interference with their industries and institutions, in case of defeat. We are soon, consequently, to take the bull by the very horns. In a week more the sacred soil of Richmond will be desecrated. Northern barbarians, with their proverbial curiosity and inquisitiveness will, with covetous eyes, force themselves into every nook and corner of the land, will violate all the proprieties of caste, and rudely demand of the ceremonious and haughty planter the price of his estate, and cheapen, perhaps, the very horse upon which he is riding! What sacrilege! For the first time in his life will the consciousness of the instability of all human things flash over him. For generations, land and negroes had descended in an unbroken routine, with as little change in the general surroundings, and in the mode of culture of the soil, as among the fixed types of Asia. For the future, the law of uses and progress is to assume control, leaving no alternative but abject submission to the will of the stronger, or retirement from the presence of the unwelcome invader, to a seclusion so long cherished, but now so rudely broken.

In Virginia, consequently, will the work of reconstruction be found more difficult and arduous than anywhere else. The people of the Eastern portion of the State are as antagonistic to the North as in any State in the South. But they have greater consequences involved in defeat. In common with all the rebels, they will be compelled to make the terrible exhibition of impotence before those who have never before doubted the supreme power of their masters, and which cannot be questioned or doubted without destroying the value of Slavery. No anguish or mortification can exceed this. But in Virginia a traditionary influence which had consolidated itself into a power, and which had enabled the aristocracy of the State to wield the patronage and destinies of a great nation, has all passed away like a dream. JEFFERSON, the apostle of Freedom, and WASHINGTON, its brightest exemplar, had, to be sure, long ceased to be the canonized saints in their calendar; but the Resolutions of 1798 were still the test of the Democracy of the whole nation—a Democracy whose dominant course kept exact pace with that of Slavery, and which enabled Virginia to reign supreme in National conventions, and guide a corrupt and servile party, which had but two instincts—political plunder and the maintenance and extension of human bondage. All this power has been ruthlessly thrown away. Virginia politics and principles, as expounded by her present leaders, will forever after be a by-word and abomination. To regain her influence, she must return to the doctrine of the fathers, which were but synonyms of Freedom. This is the work of regeneration she must undergo. The National Government will supply the conditions in perfect protection of the rights of all, the most important of which will be the right of private judgment and of public debate, in which any institution, or system, or doctrine, will be subjected at least to the test of truth, and in time, conform themselves, as far as human nature can, to the perfect standard. We must have a patience and tolerance as broad as the work before us. The reception we meet with, and the progress we make, will be some of the most interesting results of this most interesting and momentous contest. It is easy to destroy. It is in creation that we are to show what we are, and the qualities we possess.

The Two Cotton Crops.

The Southern planters have not destroyed their last Cotton crop, nor will they give over planting their next crop. The former is safe on hand; not all ready for market to be sure, but in the gin houses ready to be prepared for market. A few thousand bales have successfully run the blockade; a few thousand more have been captured in the attempt to run the blockade. With these trifling exceptions a full average crop of Cotton is now in the country. The war ended, it will soon be seen with what alacrity and certainty this crop will come forward. There has been no application of the torch to it yet, and we venture to say there will be none unless through force of the military rule in particular localites, and then only in the desperation of retreat. Even in the rebel counsels at Richmond a proposition to burn the crop was voted down. The proposition was simply the mad thought of men who have little or nothing of Cotton or any other material wealth to lose. It scarcely rose to the dignity of a self-sacrificing idea, since all the sacrifice would be with the planter and not the politician. The talk of Moscow is worse than moonshine. The conflagration of the whole three million of bales, believed to be on hand in the States in insurrection, would not prevent the National authority from repossessing the places, and territory, and channels of trade which secession is attepmting to deprive it of. The conflagration of Memphis, and Vicksburgb, and New-Orleans would not deter the same authority from restoring the freedom of the navigation of the Mississippi, from its head waters to the Balize. The Government is not after the capture of Southern cotton or Southern cities. With the first it has nothing whatever to do. The latter they will either occupy or restore to their allegiance, not for their own sakes alone, but for the restoration of the commerce of the whole Union to its accustomed channels. The President of the United States could not, if he would, give up the freedom of the Mississippi. Backed by the whole North and East, if such backing were possible, he would not be permitted to do so. The great Northwest would never submit to its surrender. That point is certain. End this war when and where you may, the free navigation of the great Father of Waters is part and parcel of the inalienable heritage of Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. As much so, and more, if possible, than the heritage of Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The present Cotton crop will not be destroyed, nor the Cotton ports on the lower Mississippi given to the flames. Nor will the succeeding crop be neglected. The seed is now going into the ground. It will germinate as usual, and the plant will grow and bloom, and its textile product be gathered in due course of the revolving season, and a second crop will be on hand before the crop of last year is fairly disposed of, even though the war should end by midsummer. The Richmond counsels attempted to instruct the planters not to grow another crop. The attempt failed, and if it had not, the instruction would not have been regarded. The planter may devote more attention to his corn crop than heretofore, but the main business of his costly possessions in land and negroes will go on. By confession of YANCEY himself, and others of the Confederate conspirators, Cotton is no longer king in Europe, nor indispensable to the North. The destruction of one crop, and the failure to grow another, would neither revolutionize the one nor convulse the other. Such folly would simply deprive the planting States of their chief, if not their only element of material strength.

THE SIEGE OF YORKTOWN.—The National Intelligencer, which one would hardly think of calling a sensation journal, has nevertheless on several occasions anticipated the War Department with impunity; and yesterday it again outruns the official utterance by the announcement that the National army advanced on Saturday to Yorktown, with three divisions, and attacked the enemy's position, and that "the bombardment of MAGRUDER'S fortifications was progressing well, with very few casualties on our side." As this intelligence supplements Gen. WOOL'S telegram, that firing was heard in the direction of Yorktown that same morning, it will, doubtless, be accepted as authentic, and will naturally concentrate public attention on the peninsula where operations have been begun that can have but one aim, and a line of march taken up that can have but one goal—the possession of the rebel capital! But without attempting to outrun in anticipation what we must ere long hear of as a stirring actuality, we may well pause awhile at the historic field whence the booming of the National artillery comes to our ear. Yorktown marked the close of the Revolutionary struggle, and may be said to mark a new era in the existing contest. It was here that, eighty years ago, CORNWALLIS took up his position, intrenched behind powerful works; here he was sought out and assailed by WASHINGTON, and, after a desperate siege of many days, was finally compelled to surrender his whole army to the American commander. The siege of Yorktown was among the most wisely planned and the most vigorously executed of all WASHINGTON'S military operations; and there are many features in which the present siege promises to resemble its illustrious prototype. WASHINGTON was careful to take to this decisive work an overwhelming force—four or five times that of the enemy—with abundance of artillery and a powerful coöperating French fleet: we have probably ten times the number of the rebel force, and artillery and fleet to match. WASHINGTON carried the royal stronghold by a flank movement—a favorite mode of attack with our Union Generals against the rebels. CORNWALLIS had made all his arrangements to escape with his army; MAGRUDER has, doubtless, like his fellow rebel commanders, done the same. But WASHINGTON captured the whole force, and we sincerely hope the example will be emulated by our present General. Finally, the capture of Yorktown was described by a journal of the times as having "dispelled those nocturnal vapors that hung around us, and put the most pleasing aspect upon our present political affairs that any era of the present war has ever beheld." And though the capture of this place at the present time will not be, as it was last century, a termination of the campaign, yet the operations that are immediately beyond can be nothing less than "the swelling prologue to the imperial theme" of a vanquished rebellion and a rehabilitated Union.

The Atlantic Telegraph and International Good Faith.

It will have been noticed that the Commission authorized by Secretary SEWARD to make a proposal on the part of the American Government to coöperate with England in a renewed effort to lay the Atlantic telegraph cable, has been favorably received and is reported to feel confident that the British Cabinet will accept the offer. We are not sure, however, that some recent developments will not dispose Mr. SEWARD to reconsider his proposition. In the course of the late extended debate on Maritime Rights in the House of Commons, a doctrine of international good faith was avowed by Lord PALMERSTON, the Lord Advocate and other speakers, official and non-official, which is certainly far from inspiring the conviction that such a coöperation would be a judicious measure on our part, and which indeed, if taken literally, would in the event of hostilities between the two nations, turn the Atlantic cable into a terrible weapon of war against ourselves. According to this doctrine, which has received the sanction of the leading English Press, war breaks up all treaties, and Lord PALMERSTON, in a series of aphorisms that would not have done discredit to MACHIAVELI, went even so far as to erect bad faith into the dignity of a principle. The special subject under discussion was the Treaty of Paris, the provisions of which are already found to be so inconvenient that one party in the Commons is desirous of abolishing them altogether, while another party urges the noble step of advancing to, and accepting the American doctrine of neutral rights propounded by Mr. MARCY in 1856. It was seriously argued, however, by several Government speakers, that there was no necessity for abrogating it, as in the event of a war, Great Britain could disavow her treaty obligations, or as the Lord Advocate put it, she might "retract under the pressure of an actual struggle the engagements she had made in peace!"

Now if these views, so frankly avowed, are really seriously entertained by the British Government, they may well give us pause before entering into an international partnership in this great enterprise. Of course there can be no arrangement entered into, unless there is positive assurance that the telegraph shall be absolutely inviolate, and impressed with the character of complete neutrality in war as in peace. Of course solemn guarantees to this effect would be given by the two nations in the event of proceeding with the undertaking. But what surety have we, in view of the newly-avowed doctrine of international good faith that, in case of hostilities supervening, these obligations would not be "retracted?" The proposed route from Ireland to Newfoundland places both ends of the cable in British possessions, and would put into the hands of that Government a formidable instrument of war. It must be confessed that our experience during the late Trent excitement, does not inspire any great confidence that the British Government would not act on the principle its authoritative representatives have just put forth, and turn the telegraph to a hostile use, however strongly its neutrality might be guaranteed by treaty. But we are willing to give England credit for being honester than her official spokesman would make us believe; there are still weighty reasons why we should insist on having one end of the line on United States soil. The proposition made by Mr. SEWARD has not yet received the necessary sanction of the National Congress; and it will, at least, be prudent to have the subject thoroughly discussed, before entering on vast and expensive outlays.

AN APPEAL FOR CHURCH BELLS.—If the Southern people remain much longer under the rule of the Confederacy, they will assuredly be as thoroughly despoiled as was the land of Egypt by the swarm of locusts. A little while ago the Richmond usurpers issued an imperative demand for all firearms; they now go further, and make an appeal for the church-bells, with intent to turn them into cannon. The "appeal," issued from the Ordnance Bureau of the rebel Government at Richmond, urges congregations to send in their bells "for the purpose of providing light artillery for the public defence." The special metallurgic reason set forth for this measure is that "while copper is abundant, the supply of tin is deficient to convert the copper into bronze; and bells contain so much tin that 2,400 pounds of bell-metal, mixed with the proper quantity of copper, will suffice for a field battery of six pieces." Accordingly, congregations are recommended to send along their bells for this "patriotic purpose" to places of deposit provided at Richmond, Fayetteville, Charleston, Savannah, Montgomery, Columbus, Baton Rouge, and other points designated. At the close of the war the clergy are assured, the bells will be paid for or replaced—that is, things will be restored to the condition ante bellum. It remains to be seen with what degree of alacrity the people will respond to this appeal, which significantly reveals the desperate straits of the rebels. As there is every probability that most of the points indicated as dépôts will be in our possession before the bells can be sent along and cast into cannon, we need not look with any great trepidation to the anticipated increase of rebel light artillery. The only subject of regret in this connection is that the bells should not remain long enough in their belfries to ring the funeral knell of the secession-rebellion and its nefarious leaders.

POLITICAL SIGNS.—The Union-Republican State ticket achieved a decided and complete success at the election in Connecticut yesterday; and Gov. BUCKINGHAM was triumphantly reëlected. This is a gratifying indication of the confidence of the people of Connecticut in the Administration, and will help to strengthen the hands of our rulers in the great work of National conservation. It is a pleasing corollary to the triumph of the Union-Democratic candidates in Rhode Island last week.

THE REBELS EVERYWHERE RETREATING.—Activity pervades the army of Virginia in every Military Department. This morning we have news that Gen. MILROY, who for some time has been holding the pass of Cheat Mountain, Randolph County, in the northern part of the State, has advanced to the rebel position at Camp Alleghany, some twenty miles in a northeasterly direction, and that the rebels there have retreated before him; while the bodies of rebels stationed at Monterey, the capital of Randolph County, and at Huntersville, the capital of Pocahontas County, have also fallen back in the direction of Staunton, from which they will have a railroad escape toward Richmond. It appears, also, by our special dispatch from Wheeling, that a general southeasterly movement of all the main columns in Northwestern Virginia has commenced simultaneously with the retreat of the rebels over the mountains. The rebels have kept these and other bodies of troops in the Western mountains during the Winter to prevent the advance of our army into the Shenandoah Valley, towards the rear of JACKSON'S lately defeated force. Their retirement now would seem to be another indication that they have given up all hope of holding any part of Virginia west of the Blue Ridge, if indeed they have not given up hope of retaining any part of the State. If Gen. MILROY is able to advance much further in the direction he is pursuing, he will get in the rear of JACKSON'S brigade, which is still annoying our forces at Edenburg. With BANKS in his front and MILROY in his rear, brief work will be made with that insolent rebel. Cheat Mountain and Gen. MILROY are in FREMONT'S new Department of the Mountains.

OBITUARY.

Death of Count Nesselrode.

The death of the distinguished Russian statesman and diplomatist, NESSELRODE, is announced by the Hibernian. He had reached the great age of [illegible] years, and from his early manhood up to within a few years of his death, had been engaged in various important duties of State. He was of a Russo-German family, and was born on board a Russian frigate in the port of Lisbon, and baptized in the Protestant faith on board an English ship. He began his career in the military service, but in early life became attached to the various embassies of his father, who, as well as his grandfather, was an Embassador. He gained the favor of ALEXANDER by the brilliant style of his diplomatic compositions, and received from him an appointment in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in St. Petersburg. He married a woman, neither young nor handsome, but who had grown rich by speculating and smuggling. He was intrusted with the ministry of foreign affairs en second, after the rupture with NAPOLEON, in 1812; and from that time he controled the relations of Russia with foreign countries. In the night of March 31, 1814, he signed the capitulation of Paris, which put an end to the wars of the first French Empire; and 42 years afterward he retired from public service, after the signing of the treaty of peace in Paris, March 30, 1856, which terminated the war with NAPOLEON III. and his allies. At the Congress of Vienna, and the formation of the Holy Alliance, he was the leading spirit, and he assumed for Russia that attitude of superiority which has since given to Russian State craft such a distinguished position in the diplomatic world. He exerted himself to obtain a reduction of the enormous fines imposed upon France after Waterloo, and LOUIS XVIII. and RICHELIEU showed their gratitude by passing into his hands immense amounts of money, which made him one of the richest men in Europe. His flocks of sheep amounted to over 150,000, and his personal property was reported as almost fabulous. After the death of ALEXANDER, NESSELRODE continued to enjoy the confidence of the Czar NICHOLAS, and he was promoted to the rank of Cchancelor of the empire. His emoluments from his various offices became enormous; and he was relieved from his duties in 1856, overburdenced with wealth, years and honors. He was famous for his skill in cooking and for inventing new dishes, as for instance the pudding à la Nesselrode. What of his time was not employed in the heavy duties of diplomacy was passed in the more delightful occupation of cookery. In politics he was an absolutist.

Death of Prince Windischgratz.

The Austrian Prince WINDISCHGRATZ, whose death we learn simultaneously with that of NESSELRODE, was some time Generalissimo of the Austrian troops, and had bombarded more capital cities than any commander of his time. He was descended from WALLENSTEIN, and on account of his high aristocratical manners, he earned the title of "the first Austrian gentleman." He was an Absolutist in politics; and shortly after the breaking out of the Liberal movements in 1848, he took the chief command of the army against the Hungarians. He bombarded Prague in July, and soon after he bombarded Vienna. He rejected all overtures on the part of the Hungarians, imprisoned their envoys, and amused himself by shooting the suspected. He took the field in December, swept in three weeks from Vienna to Pesth, driving the Hungarians before him, and was extolled by the Absolutists as the greatest general in Europe. When the Hungarians recovered themselves, and in turn drove him and his army beyond their frontier, he was superseded, and those who had before extolled him to the clouds, now abused him, while the people exulted in the fall of the harsh and blood-stained aristocrat. He will be remembered only as the man who destroyed some of the most flourishing cities of Germany, who murdered ROBERT BLUM, one of the ablest and most patriotic men in the Frankfort Parliament, who suppressed newspapers, and administered musket-balls to a large number of unhappy editors.

Amusements.

WINTER GARDEN.—Last evening a new and original play was presented at this theatre, entitled "Sibyl," written by Mr. JOHN SAVAGE, a gentleman of high reputation, both in the literary and political world. It has many claims on popular interest, picturing, as it does, events which at the period of their occurrence, some thirty years ago, created an unexampled sensation in this country. "Sibyl" is founded on the story known to all the readers of the romance of American history, as the "Beauchamp Tragedy of Kentucky." At the same time, the play is by no means an exact dramatization of the incidents of that thrilling story. In the story, revenge is the all-absorbing thought of the heroine; in the play, the author's idea is evidently to picture her in a more womanly color, and to show that the passion of love is stronger even than that of revenge. In doing so, he has fitted the part far more perfectly to the peculiar genius of Miss HERON, which finds its fullest sweep in the portrayal of the depth and self-sacrifice of woman's love.

Last evening, she was in her highest form, and in the surge of sentiment and pomp of passion which swells around the character, she surpassed herself. In the fourth act she found her highest triumph, and well merited the enthusiastic call which summoned her before the curtain. The other characters were well filled, Mr. BARTON HILL especially playing with great power the rôle of the lover, and the piece may be pronounced a decided success. As might be expected from a young author, and one unacquainted with stage business, there are faults of construction which at once present themselves, and are easy of correction, but they are fully compensated for by the luxuriance of imagery and richness of diction in which the play abounds.

Which was received, directed to be printed at length in the minutes and placed on file.

A communication was received from the Street Commissioner, viz: being his report of the public business done by the Street Department for the first quarter of this year, ending March 31. The Commissioner states that requisitions have been made by this Department for the quarter, amounting to $229,357 51, of which amount $140,338 94 were drawn upon tax appropriations, and $90,010 57 on trust account, which amount will be reimbursed the City Treasury by assessment upon the property benefited thereby.

After summing up the business of the several departments, the Commissioner says:

"As the appropriations for the year 1862 have not yet been made, this Department has been consequently obliged to curtail its expenditures to the purchase of supplies, and the performance of work absolutely necessary, and even this, in many cases, could not be done. Executive Departments under the City Government must necessarily be trammeled in the prosecution of public business intrusted to them, whilst the present defective laws, regarding appropriations and expenditures of money, exist."

Councilman Long moved that the communication be received, and that 2,500 copies thereof be printed in document form.

Councilman Orton moved to amend said motion by striking therefrom the number of "2,500," and inserting in lieu thereof the number of "1,500."

Which was lost.

Councilman Long (by consent) amended his motion so as to make the same embrace only the printing of 2,000 copies instead of 2,500.

The President put the question on the adoption of Councilman Long's motion in the amended form.

On which the ayes and noes were had, with the following result:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Hayes, Healy, Desmond, Gross, Repper, Webster, Keech, Babcock, Snyder, Long—12.

Negative—Councilmen Hazleton, Gedney, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, The President—8.

Whereupon the President declared the motion lost, from wanting a constitutional vote.

Councilman Hogan moved that such unfavorable vote be reconsidered.

Which was carried.

The President stated that the question recurred on the amended motion of Councilman Long, viz.: that the communication be received, and that 2,000 copies thereof be printed in document form.

Councilman Orton renewed his motion to amend said motion, by striking therefrom the number of "2,000," and inserting in lieu thereof the number of "1,500."

Which was lost.

The President again stated the question to be on the motion of Councilman Long, viz.: That the report be received and 2,000 copies thereof reprinted in document form.

On which the ayes and noes were demanded and had, with the following result:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Hayes, Healy, Desmond, Gross, Repper, Webster, Hazleton, Keech, Snyder, Long—12.

Councilman Hogan moved that such unfavorable vote be reconsidered.

Which was carried.

Councilman Hogan then moved that the whole subject be referred to the Committee on Printing and Advertising.

Which was carried.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Objection being made, Councilman Keech moved to suspend the rule for the purpose of taking up, and considering said general order, which was carried by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Barney, Hayes, Healy, Desmond, Gross, Repper, Webster, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, Snyder, and Long—16.

Negative—Councilmen Hogan, Hazleton, the President and Babcock—4.

Councilman Hogan moved to amend said resolution by striking therefrom all after the words "Joint Committee on National affairs, embracing the words following, to wit: "and every act, ordinance, or resolution, involving the expenditure of money, shall be reported back to the Board from which it was referred to said Committee."

Which was lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Hayes, Healey, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Long—9.

Negative—Barney, Desmond, Jones, Gross, Repper, Webster, Hazleton, Gedney, the President, Babcock, Trotter, Snyder—12.

After the vote was announced,

Councilman Webster desired to change his vote, which was objected to.

The President ruled the proposition out of order.

Councilman Orton moved that the resolution be amended by striking therefrom the words following, to wit: "And every act, ordinance or resolution involving the expenditure of money shall be reported back to the Board from which it was referred to said Committee," and insert in lieu thereof the words following to wit: "and that said Committee be requested to report to the Common Council, once each month, all expenses incurred by them."

(Councilman Stevenson was here called to the Chair.)

Councilman Hazleton moved that the Board do now adjourn, which was lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Desmond, Gross, Hazleton, Babcock—4.

Negative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Hayes, Healy, Jones, Repper, Webster, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, Snyder, Long—15.

Affirmative—Councilmen Desmond, Jones, Repper, Hazleton, Babcock, Snyder—6.

Councilman Ross moved that the Board do now adjourn.

Councilman Jones moved to amend said motion, by adding thereto the words "until Monday evening, 14th inst., at 5 o'clock."

Councilman Keech raised the point of order that it was not proper to amend a motion to adjourn.

The President pro tem. ruled the point of order to be well taken, and the proposed amendment of Councilman Jones out of order.

The President pro tem. then stated the question to be on the motion of Councilman Ross that the Board do now adjourn.

Whereupon Councilman Ross withdrew said motion.

Councilman Jones moved that the rules be suspended, for the purpose of permitting him to make a motion that when the Board adjourn, it do so to meet on Monday next, 14th instant.

Councilman Keech raised the point of order that said motion was not in order, the rules having been already suspended for the special purpose of considering the general order not yet disposed of.

The President pro tem. declared the point of order to be well taken, and ruled the motion of Councilman Jones out of order.

Councilman Jones then moved that the present order of business be suspended, for the purpose of permitting him to make the motion that when the Board adjourn it do so to meet on Monday next, 14th inst.

Councilman Ross moved that the Board do now adjourn.

Which was lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Desmond, Hazleton, Ross, Trotter—4.

Negative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Hayes, Healy, Jones, Gross, Repper, Webster, Keech, Lent, Orton, Stevenson, The President, Babcock, Long—15.

The President pro tem., stated the question to be on the motion of Councilman Jones to suspend the present order of business, for the purpose of permitting him to make a motion relative to the next meeting.

Councilman Orton raised the point of order, that the rules having been suspended specially to consider the general order now under consideration, it was not in order to suspend that special motion to permit another special motion.

The President pro tem. ruled that said point of order was well taken, and that the motion of Councilman Jones was not in order.

The President pro tem. then stated the question to be on the proposed amendment, of Councilman LENT, to amend the amendment proposed by Councilman ORTON, by adding to the words suggested, to be inserted, after the words "to report," the words "in writing."

Councilman LENT thereupon withdrew said amendments.

The President pro tem. then stated that the question recorded on the amendment to the resolution pending, proposed by Councilman Orton, viz., to strike therefrom the words following, to wit: "and every act, ordinance or resolution, involving the expenditure of money, shall be reported back to the Board from which it was referred to said Committee," and insert in lieu thereof the words following, to wit: "and that said Committee be requested to report to the Common Council once each month all expenses incurred by them."

Councilman Orton moved the previous question.

Councilman Hogan moved that the whole subject be laid upon the table.

The President pro tem. declared said motion out of order until the motion for the previous question had been decided.

The President pro tem. then stated the question to be on the motion of Councilman Orton for the previous question, and put the question, "Shall the main question now be put?"

Which was decided in the affirmative.

The President pro tem. then stated that the question would first be upon the amendment proposed by Councilman Orton, to strike out and insert, as above.

Which was carried by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Hayes, Healy, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, The President, Trotter—12.

Negative—Desmond, Jones, Gross, Repper, Webster, Hazleton, Babcock, Snyder, Long—9.

The President pro tem. then stated that the question would be on the adoption of the resolution as amended.

Councilman Jones moved that the Board do now adjourn until Monday evening next, 14th inst.

The President pro tem. ruled said motion out of order, pending the previous question.

Councilman Jones moved that the previous question be postponed.

Councilman Hogan raised the point of order that the Previous question could not be postponed.

The President pro tem. decided the point of order not to be well taken, and declared the question to be on the motion to postpone the previous question.

Which was lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Hayes, Healy, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, Long—12.

Negative—Desmond, Jones, Gross, Repper, Webster, Hazleton, the President, Babcock, Snyder—9.

The President pro tem. then stated the question to be on the previous question, being the adoption of the resolution as amended, on which the ayes and noes were demanded and had, with the following result:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, the President, Trotter, Long—11.

Negative—Jones, Gross, Repper, Webster, Hazleton, Babcock, Snyder—7.

Whereupon the President pro tem. declared the resolution lost for want of a constitutional vote.

Councilman Keech moved that such unfavorable vote be reconsidered.

Which was carried.

[The President here resumed the Chair.]

The President stated that the question recurred on the motion which had just been reconsidered, viz.: To adopt the resolution as amended.

Councilman Jones moved that the resolution be postponed.

Lost, on a division, 6 members voting affirmatively, and 11 negatively.

Councilman Jones moved that the whole subject be postponed until next Monday.

Which was lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—The President, Councilmen Jones, Repper, Hazleton, Snyder—5.

Negative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Gross, Webster, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Babcock, Trotter, Long—13.

Councilman Jones moved that the Board now adjourn, which was lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—Jones, Gross, Repper, Hazleton, the President, Babcock—6.

Negative—Hogan, Barney, Webster, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, Snyder, Long—12.

Councilmen Jones moved to amend the resolution, under consideration, by striking therefrom the words following, to wit: "And that said Committee be requested to report to the Common Council once each month all expenses incurred by them," and inserting, in lieu thereof, the words following, to wit: "and every act, ordinance, or resolution, involving the expenditure of money, shall be reported back to the Board from which it was referred to said Committee, after being considered in Committee of the Whole."

The President ruled said amendment to be out of order, on the ground that the words proposed to be inserted were identical, in effect, with the portion of the original resolution stricken out.

The President then stated the question to be on the adoption of the resolution.

On which, the ayes and noes were had with the following result:

Affirmative—Councilmen Hogan, Barney, Gross, Webster, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, Long—12.

Negative—Councilmen Jones, Repper, Hazleton, the President, Babcock, Snyder—6.

Whereupon, the President declared said resolution to be lost for want of a constitutional vote.

Councilman Orton raised the point of order that, as the resolution involved an appropriation of money, it did not require more than a majority of a quorum to pass it.

The President declared said point of order to be not well taken, on the ground that all resolutions and ordinances require 13 votes.

Councilman Orton appealed from that decision of the Chair.

The President put the question—"Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Board?"

Councilman Jones moved that the appeal as taken by Councilman Orton, be laid upon the table.

Which was carried by the following vote:

Affirmative—Councilmen Barney, Jones, Gross, Repper, Webster, Hazleton, Ross, Stevenson, Trotter, Snyder—10.

Negative—Councilmen Hogan, Gedney, Keech, Lent, Orton, Babcock, Long—7.

Councilman Hogan then moved that the unfavorable vote on the resolution be reconsidered.

Which was carried.

The President then again stated that the question recurred on the motion to adopt the resolution, and on which the ayes and noes were demanded and had with the following result:

Affirmative—Councilmen Gross, Repper, Webster, Lent, Ross, Trotter, Long—7.

Negative—Councilmen Hogan, Jones, Hazleton, Gedney, Orton, Stevenson, Babcock, Snyder—8.

Whereupon the President again declared said resolution lost, for want of a constitutional vote.

Councilman Orton thereupon offered his resignation as a member of the Committee on National Affairs.

Councilman Lent moved that said resignation be laid on the table.

Subsequently, however, the motion to lay on the table was withdrawn.

Councilman Hogan then offered his resignation, also, as a member of the Committee on National Affairs.

Councilman Stevenson also presented his resignation as a member of the same committee.

Councilman Keech subsequently offered his resignation as a member of such committee.

Councilman Lent moved that the Board of Councilmen adjourn.

Which was carried.

Whereupon, the President declared the Board adjourned until Monday evening next, 14th instant, at 6 o'clock P. M.

A Contradiction.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, April 7.

Gen. Mansfield Lovell.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

It may not be uninteresting to your readers to know that this doubly-dyed traitor is a grand nephew of BENEDICT ARNOLD, of world-wide infamy. His grandfather was a devoted soldier of the Revolution, Col. SAMUEL MANSFIELD, and his mother a near connection of the gallant and patriotic Gen. NATHANIEL GREENE, of the army of the Revolution.

Both would have wept with sorrow and shame over the acts of their traitor descendant. The family were from New-England, but LOVELL's mother was born in this City, and the writer well remembers them as living in Broadway, a few doors below Maiden-avenue.

It is painful to record the infamy of such men as SLIDELL and LOVELL, who have not even the excuse of Southern descent to gloss over their parricidal defection.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some painful patient, who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

The steamship Hibernian from Liverpool, March 27, at 3 P. M. via Londonderry the subsequent day, arrived here at 3:40 P. M.

Her mails will be due in New-York to-morrow night.

The Hibernian has sixty-three passengers.

The steamship Arabia from New-York, arrived at Liverpool on the 24th.

The steamship City of New-York from New-York, arrived at Queenstown on the 27th.

The steamship Borussia from New-York, arrived at Southampton on the 27th.

The steamship Etna sailed from Liverpool 26th, Queenstown 27th for New-York. Annexed is a summary of the news sent out by her.

THE ETNA'S NEWS.

In the House of Commons, Mr. GREGORY asked if the Government's attention had been called to the capture of the British steamer Labuan, in Mexican waters, by a Federal cruiser?

Mr. LAYARD said the Government's attention had been called to the matter, and Lord LYONS had been instructed to communicate with Mr. SEWARD on the subject. He was unable to state yet what course would be adopted, but the Government had thought it right to order a vessel of war to Matamoras for the protection of British interests in American waters.

The debate on the Education question had not developed the expected strong opposition to the Ministry.

The English journals criticise the commencement of the campaign in Virginia.

The Daily News eulogizes Gen. McCLELLAN's tactics, thinks the crisis approaching, and believes the Confederates, although retreating, have prepared the field for a great battle.

The same journal rejoices at the adoption, by the House, of President LINCOLN's Emancipation project, as an immediate step in favor of human rights.

The Times reiterates its belief that nothing will be made of Mr. LINCOLN's proposition, but regards it as important, in admitting the principle of an accommodation between the North and South.

The Times believes the real defence of the Confederates will be found in the vastness and desolation of their country, and argues that, if they are really in earnest, the North must look for bootless victories and exhausting conquests.

The Herald thinks peace may possibly be conquered, by one side or the other, in or around Richmond.

Mr. GEORGE PEABODY's unprecedented munificence has been formally consummated in a correspondence now published, in which he places £150,000 at the disposal of Mr. ADAMS, the American Minister, Lord STANLEY, Sir EMMERSON TENNENT, and Messrs. LAMPSON and MORGAN, as trustees, for the purpose of ameliorating the condition of the poor of London.

At the annual meeting of the Galway line, the Directors announced that they were about ready and efficiently able to resume their contract. They intended, formally, to apply for a renewal of the subsidy, and expressed great confidence in its restoration.

Lord PALMERSTON is again suffering from gout.

The King of the Belgians is reported critically ill.

Rumors of Ministerial changes in France are authoritatively contradicted.

The Bourse was firm. Rentes 70f.

There were rumors of ministerial modifications at Turin; various changes are rumored, but nothing confirmed.

A ministerial circular had been issued maintaining the rights of Italy to recognition, asserting that Rome should be the centre of the Government, and affirming that the solution of the Venetian question, according to the wishes of Italy, is necessary for a general peace.

A grand banquet had been given to GARIBALDI at Milan. He and others made patriotic speeches indicative of approaching movements.

Austria has taken another step favorable to the freedom of the Press.

Prince WINDISCHGRATZ and Count NESSELRODE are dead.

The Spanish Government has ordered Gen. PRIM not to negotiate with the Mexicans till the troops shall have entered the City of Mexico.

The United States sloop-of-war Constellation, from Portsmouth, N. H., had arrived at Cadiz.

It was asserted that the Greek insurrection was not yet over.

THE HIBERNIAN'S NEWS.

The steamers Sumter and Tuscarora were still at Gibraltar, March 21.

The proceedings in the British Parliament on the 26th of March were devoid of interest.

The London Times has a letter from Dr. RUSSELL, dated Washington, March 11, which says that the passage of the Federal army over the Long Bridge was a magnificent spectacle, and a most imposing display of military power. A special eulogy is passed on the Ninth Massachusetts Regiment as one of the finest in the army. Dr. RUSSELL says that whatever may happen, Gen. McCLELLAN can never lose the credit of having formed disorderly masses of men into an army, and of having instilled into them the principles of soldier-like discipline. The battle so many were looking forward to is indefinitely postponed, and there is no telling where it may be fought. Dr. RUSSELL shows the difficulty of any considerable advance of the Federals, owing to the barrenness of the country.

The Times, in an editorial, says that the time cannot be far, when the South must either surrender their cotton and tobacco, or burn them. If they give up their crops to the invaders, we may consider they intend to succumb. If they give them to the flames, all the worst that can happen to them will have been endured, and that task of conquest which never can be performed will have commenced.

The Daily News, in remarking on the abandonment of the important arsenal of Pensacola, observes that they (the rebels) gain much in immediate efficiency by the contraction of their area of defence, and will probably make a desperate stand either at Richmond or Norfolk, where it is very likely a great battle may decide the fate of the war.

Lord PALMERSTON continued confined to his room by gout.

It is reported that the Emperor NAPOLEON does not intend visiting the Great Exhibition at London.

The Paris Bourse was heavy and drooping.

GARIBALDI left Milan on the 26th ult., amid the cheers of the people. His tour through Lombardy is for the purpose of stirring up the young men to join the volunteer corps.

It is asserted that demonstrations were becoming quite frequent in Venetia. Numerous arrests were reported at Mantua and Venice.

The rumors of ministerial arrests at Turin are pronounced unfounded. The Budget had finally passed by a large majority.

The question of Austrian finances had been debated in the lower House of Reichsrath. The policy of the Finance Minister was attacked, but the House justified the increase of the military force by the political situation of 1860. During the debate the Polish and Czeck members left the House.

Judgment had been given in the prosecutions for offences against the Austrian Press laws.

The editor of the Wanderer was sentenced to eight months imprisonment, and the editor of the Press to fourteen days.

Six hundred Turkish troops had been surrounded by insurgents at Crinitza, the insurgents having previously repulsed the troops which came to the rescue.

In the London money market, the funds on the 20th fell ¼ per cent.—the only apparent cause being a great demand for the new Turkish loan—the bids for which already amounted to £24,000,000, or three times the sum required.

The demand for discount was moderate, and the rate unchanged.

NEWS FROM HAVANA.

Trade with Matamoras—British and French Naval Vessels in the Rio Grande—More Vessels Running the Blockade—From Venezuela and San Domingo, &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

The French steamer Le Tage, which left this port a short time since for Matamoras, came in on the 28th ult., bringing, I am told, the same cargo she took. This, they say, is because the Mexican authorities have increased the port charges so much as to effectually prevent commerce, and ordering her to unload in a place where there was not water enough. There was very little cotton in Matamoras, and not more than 200 bales in Brownsville, for which they asked 18 cents per pound.

The Fort Brown Flag, of the 20th ult., says the British steamer Phæton, 56 guns, and the French steamer Bertholet, 6 guns, appeared in the Rio Grande. The French officers did not land, but some of the English did, were in Matamoras on the 18th, and went to Brownsville on the 19th. They were offered a ball, but did not accept. It also says the English commander assured them that his mission was to keep open the navigation of the Rio Grande at all hazards.

Col. JOHN L. PICKETT, rebel Minister to Mexico, arrived in Brownsville on the 19th, and would soon start for Richmond.

The Iroquois came in on the 23d, and the Norwegian screw-corvette Nornew sailed; also, H. B. M. steamer Steady.

On the 24th, arrived the Sardinian schooner Guio, 51 tons, 40 days from New-Orleans, and five days from the mouth of the Mississippi, with cotton.

On the 25th, came in the rebel schooner Independence, six days from Mobile, 102 tons, with cotton. The same day the rebel schooner Cuba, seven days from Mobile, 99 tons, with cotton.

On the 27th, the rebel schooner Eagle, 24 days from New-Orleans, and three days from the mouth of the Mississippi, 54 tons, with cotton. On the same day the English (?) schooner Julia sailed for Matamoras. On the 28th, the English (?) schooner Mayflower sailed for Matamoras. On the 29th, the schooner Mary, from Pensacola, 26 days, arrived with cotton. From Nassau, came in the same day, English (?) steamer Ella Warley, Capt. SWASY, 10 passengers. On the 30th, sailed the English (?) schooner Borgia, for Matamoras.

On the 1st inst., the rebel schooner Mary Ellen, 68 tons, arrived from Pensacola with cotton; also the United States dispatch-boat Nonpareil, bringing Judge MARVIN.

From Venezuela we have dates to the 6th, from Caracas. The only remaining rebellious factions are those of Caracas, Aragua, Cojedes and Coro. In the first, a decisive battle, gained by the Government troops at Rio Chico, had broken up the "secesh" movement, and their Chief is a prisoner. In Aragua, Gen. PEREZ ARROZO has destroyed the party of RUFO ROJAS. A battle at Balazia Cojedes, resulted in the death of the rebel Chief, RIVAS SANDOVAL, and the whole district is under the control of Gen. MARTINEZ. The retreat of Gen. FALCON, the dispersion of his forces, and the death of Gen. PETIT, has killed the rebellion in Coro. This nearly ends the "Federacion Venezolana," and peace will soon be restored, though Gen. MONAGAS still lives in the East; being an imbecile, the rebels can hope for little from him; he amuses himself in being conveyed about by his Indians in a hammock.

Gen. PAEZ and his Government passed through Puerto Cabello, en route for Caracas, where a financial scheme was carried out. Fifty thousand dollars was immediately advanced by the merchants, and the Government has destined 25 per cent. of the revenue on imports for the liquidation of this loan. In Caracas, a subscription for $100,000 per month has been formed, to cash for one year what bills the "Banco de Venezuela" may issue, these bills to be payable in six months.

A new line of steamers is to be established between Guawa and Ciudad Boliva, touching at the island of Trinidad.

We have dates from Puerto Rico to the 13th ult. Gen. ECHAGUE sailed on the 12th for Spain. The command of the island is left to Don RAFAEL IZQUIERDO. There was a large fire at Mayaguez on the 10th. Nineteen buildings were burned, and the loss, as far as ascertained, was over $200,000. Many lives were lost, and several have since died of lockjaw caused by burns.

We have dates from Santa Domingo to the 17th. Her Catholic Majesty has ordered a church to be erected on the spot where the first mass was said in America, and in commemoration of the return of the island to the mother country. Small-pox and scarlet fever are raging in the towns of Manzanillo (this island) and Bayamo. We have had these diseases, particularly the former, throughout the island, but it is now abating.

By the arrival of the Spanish mail steamer Canarias, twenty days from Cadiz, we learn of the loss of the steamer Cantabria, which left Cadiz on the 25th of February. She had on board some 800 souls, including a battalion of soldiers. She left Santa Cruz de Teneriffe on the 1st ult., and on the 3d sprung a leak, and would have sunk but for the exertions of the soldiers, through which they were able on the morning of the 5th to beach her on the island of Gomera. A calm fortunately prevailing, only one life was lost—that of a child.

NEWS FROM MEXICO.

Arrival of the Spanish Troops at Cordova and Orizaba—Further Particulars of the Late Explosion at San Andres—The Mexican Government Demands a Forced Loan from Six Spanish Houses—Protest of the Allied Plenipotentiaries—A Possible Cause of War.

By the steamer Roanoke, which left Havana on the 2d of April, and arrived at this port last evening, we have received further news of interest from the neighboring Republic.

The Eco de Europa, of the 15th ult., which is now published in Orizaba, gives the following particulars of the explosion in the Mexican quarters, and which took place at a place called San Andrés de Chalchicomula.

"On Friday, the 7th inst., there occurred in the village of San Andrés, Chalchicomula, one of those terrible misfortunes that cannot be contemplated without a movement of compassion mingled with terror. About two thousand men of the Mexican Army were quartered in the Commissariat building, the whole or the greater part belonging to the corps raised in the State of Oajaca. There were inside the building large quantities of powder and munitions of war, which instead of being warehoused, lay in disorder on the ground, within reach of the fires burning in the court-yards and of the cigars of the smokers. At 8 o'clock the above-mentioned day, from causes that we do not know, but which mark a very unfortunate negligence, a spark fell on one of the chests of gunpowder, and suddenly communicating fire to the rest, the immense building came to the ground with a dreadful crash, burying immediately under its ruins all that were inside. We have been assured that there perished more than a thousand persons, some five hundred remaining wounded or horribly mutilated."

The above paper gives in the same number, the following particulars respecting the march and position of the allied forces, and the animation that Orizaba offered after their occupation:

"Our readers will recollect that the Spanish Division left Vera Cruz on the 1st and 2d insts., the Second Brigade on the 1st under the orders of Brigadier MILANS, and on the 2d the First Brigade, commanded by Brigadier VARGAS. Both brigades continued their march by short journeys until the 7th, on which day they entered Cordova, where they rested two days. The Second Brigade recommenced their march on the 9th for the town of Orizaba, where they now are, the First remaining in Cordova."

The military hospital of the Spanish division has been established at Orizaba, and this is also the residence of the Commander-in-Chief.

The French division is at Tehuacan.

It is probable that there will be no change in these positions of the allied forces, whilst the negotiations last for a definitive arrangement, and which will begin on the 15th of April.

The Eco, in its paper of the 19th, gives the following with respect to the political state of the Republic and the phases that the civil war offers:

"War continues to rage in the interior of the Republic, and mention is made of various fights that have recently taken place between the troops of the Government and those of the contrary party. As it generally happens in such struggles, each one counts these combats according to the bias of his opinions, and gives their result as favorable to his party. We are without certain news, and must consequently abstain from relating what we have heard say in contrary accounts. The only thing that appears certain is that Gen. MARQUEZ, after several skirmishes, the results of which is not known by us, proceeded to Cuernavaca, in which town he entered on the 8th inst., with a force of 900 men, the greater part cavalry. Three other parties of the same politics, with their chiefs, Cobos, Buitron, Garcia, Velez, Galvan and Lemus, afterwards joined him, forming altogether, according to the Siglo XIX, of Mexico, a force of 1,300 men, who are, according to that journal, all the remains of the reaction.

On the other hand, it is said that there still exist in the Sierra several guerrilla parties, and that VICARIO with his party was lately attacking the town of Iguala in the State of Guerrero.

There has been lately a report in circulation that a body of troops, sent by the Government in pursuit of the Conservatives, had declared in their favor; but this needs confirmation.

It has been also said that the object of the reaction, in concentrating its forces in Cuernavaca and its neighborhood, is to translate the theatre of war to the State of Puebla, so as to be between the Government and the Allies. We no not know, but the new movements appear to indicate that a new plan of campaign has been adopted."

The Diario de la Marina gives the following in its correspondence:

"ORIZABA, Wednesday, March 19, 1862.

The idea of the establishment of a monarchy in this Republic is visibly repugnant to the party now in the ascendancy, but not to the Conservative party, and much less to the pure Indians, who show themselves our friends, as I have had occasion to observe in an excursion that I made out of the highroad. They still preserve, not only with appreciation, but with veneration, the remembrance of the Spanish laws which favored them, and which have been transmitted to them by their fathers. And, as there is always poetry in the past, they compare them very favorably with the sad situation to which the political disturbances have now reduced them.

Yesterday, a corporal of the Battalion of Cuba, who was coming from the camp, was surprised by three Mexican countrymen, who robbed him of three dollars, and having tied him with ropes, were taking him off, when a sergeant and a soldier succeeded in rescuing him, and overpowering the robbers. Gen. PRIM gave them over to the authorities of the country, telling them that, although the robbers had not been tried by a court-martial, still he would not fail to require that they should be punished with the utmost severity of the law.

In consequence of JUAREZ' Government having imposed a forced loan of $500,000 on six Spanish houses, the Allied Plenipotentiaries are about to send to that Government an ultimatum that the loan be annulled without delay, intimating that a negative would be the signal for a declaration of war.

If my information is correct, the loan was resolved upon by President JUAREZ and his Minister of War and Foreign Relations, Señor DOBLADO. The first news that the Secretary of the Treasury had of this unjust exaction was by a clerk, who informed him that the Government required of him about $100,000, as his part of the loan. It is said that this gave rise to a very lively altercation between that Minister (Señor ECHEVARRIA) and Señor DOBLADO. This last may appear paradoxical, but I repeat what I have been told.

On account of this circumstance, or, perhaps, on account of being indisposed, the Minister of Her Britannic Majesty will not carry into effect the journey that the Marquis DE LOS CASTILLEJOS had intended for to-morrow, to have an interview in Puebla with Señor DOBLADO, but it is said that the Secretary of the Treasury, Señor ECHEVARRIA, will come here to-morrow.

If the ultimatum is not attended to in every particular by the Mexican Government war will be declared, in which case I have been assured that our General will comply exactly with what was stipulated at Soledad, that is, will return with the troops to Paso Ancho, for which purpose there is going to be established there a dépôt of provisions, and later one of munitions of war."

The Diario adds at the conclusion:

"We have just seen a letter from Orizaba, in which it is said that the forced loan of $500,000 required by the Mexican Government, and of which one of our correspondents gives an account, has been divided between six commercial houses, but that only three are Spanish. Each of these had to contribute $100,000."

In Vera Cruz there were expected every hour two squadrons of the Chasseurs d'Afrique, (French,) and another battalion of Zouaves, likewise French.

On the same day that the French forces left for the interior, Gen. ALMONTE, Padre MIRANDA, HARO and and some others also left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Affairs at the Brooklyn Navy-yard remain much the same as last week. All the works in progress are going on as satisfactorily as can be wished, and the greatest activity prevails in all the departments.

It was rumored in the Yard that the steamer Huntsville would be converted into an iron-clad vessel, but the rumor has no good foundation, as the Huntsville is not strong enough for that purpose, nor yet for active service as a war vessel. The only thing she is fit for is a supply ship, and she will most likely be converted into one immediately. The first-class steamer Franklin, now at the Portsmouth Navy-yard, would make an excellent iron-clad steamer.

The crews of the frigates Congress and Cumberland were drilled at the Yard yesterday, preparatory to their public appearance at the forthcoming performance at the Academy of Music, for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the men who were lost with the above-named vessels.

The work on the frigate Roanoke continues to be the important feature of the Yard. Gas-pipes have been laid round the dry dock, and lanterns fixed in the shed convenient to it. From this it might be inferred the gangs of men will be kept at work night and day. It does not appear that the exact nature of the Roanoke's rig and armor has been settled upon, and she may therefore take the form of the Merrimac, or be made a Monitor, with four turrets.

The chartered schooner Blaudome has sailed from the Yard, with stores, &c., for Fortress Monroe.

The ship Danube has also left the Yard, and her berth is taken up by the gunboat Fort Henry, which requires repairs to her exhaust pipe. The chartered schooner Margaret T. Davis is at the Yard taking in shot and shell for Ship Island.

The steam transport Fulton is at the foot of Beach-street, taking in coal, and will probably sail to-day.

We are requested to warn hotel-keepers and tailors against placing too much confidence in persons representing themselves to be naval officers, as there are gentlemen (?) going round in the uniform of Lieutenants and Acting-Masters, who are in no way connected with the navy, and whose operations are calculated to bring discredit on the service. It would be well to consult the Navy Register, or to make inquiries at the Lyceum in all cases of doubt.

A detachment of recruits, enlisted in Boston, arrived here on Sunday, and was sent to Fort Columbus, and several drummers and fifers were sent from Governor's Island to Boston, having been transferred to the Eleventh Infantry, Fort Independence.

Gen. STONE, under arrest at Fort Lafayette, is allowed to walk out on parole, and avails himself of this indulgence to take exercise during the prevailing fine weather.

The Connecticut Election.

RE-ELECTION OF GOV. BUCKINGHAM BY A LARGE MAJORITY.

NEW-LONDON, Monday, April 7.

BUCKINGHAM's majority in New-London is 317.

ERASTUS D. AVERY, Republican, is elected Senator in the Seventh District by a large majority.

HARTFORD, Monday, April 7.

The following is the vote of Hartford: BUCKINGHAM, 2,230; LOOMIS, 2,116. One Democratic and one Union Representative are elected. Last year the Democrats carried Hartford by 385 majority. Gov. BUCKINGHAM is reëlected by a very largely increased majority over last year.

Danbury—The Union ticket has 221 majority.

The Union candidate for Senator in the Eleventh District is elected.

Two Union Representatives are elected.

Ridgefield—The Union ticket has 117 majority. Two Union Representatives are elected.

Brookfield—The Democratic ticket has 35 majority. The Democratic Representative is elected.

New-Fairfield—The Democratic ticket has 15 majority. The Democratic Representative is elected.

Bethel—The Union ticket has 87 majority. A Union Representative is elected.

Newtown—Democratic majority 143. Two Democratic Representatives elected.

Redding—30 Union majority reported. Two Union Representatives elected.

NEW-HAVEN, Monday, April 7.

The election in this State is overwhelming Union and Republican, so much so as to make the details unimportant to-night. More than two-thirds of the Legislature is supposed to be Union-Republican. Not one Democratic Senator is known to be elected. The whole Union-Republican State ticket is supposed to be elected by over five thousand majority.

CORNELIUS S. BUSHNELL, of the Monitor celebrity, and DAVID J. PECK, both Union men, one Republican and the other a Democrat, are elected Representatives over TILTON E. DOOLITTLE and JAMES GALLAGHER, Old-line Democrats.

HARTFORD, Monday, April 7.

Hartford County, complete, gives BUCKINGHAM 7,959; LOOMIS 6,558; a Republican gain over last year, o 1,466. Of the 21 Senators, 20 are Republican and Union. The gain in the whole State is several thousands.

The United States District Court.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, April 7.

The United States District Court opened to-day, and the oath of allegiance was administered to the Judges, clerk, attorneys and jurymen. Several treason cases will probably come before the Court during the present term.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

THE SHOOTING AFFAIR IN BROADWAY.—LOUISA BRADY, EDWARD ALLEN and Officer AMMAN, of the Concert Saloon No. 444 Broadway, appeared before Justice STEERS yesterday, and gave their testimony in the case of JAMES A. NORMAN, who is charged with shooting ELLEN FOOS at the above named place of amusement, on the night of the 3d inst. In answer to the usual inquiries NORMAN stated that he was a sailmaker by occupation, aged 37 years, and that he fired the pistol at ELLEN. ### Firemen's Fight on Sunday.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A paragraph appears in yesterday's paper, which implicates the members of my company as being concerned in a fight which took place between some rowdies while we were returning from the fire on Sunday afternoon. No member of Engine Company No. 31 had any participation in the disturbances you refer to. A collision took place at the scene of the fire, but this was all the difficulty I know anything about. Whoever the combatants were, at any other time or place, I know not; but when my members were assaulted with hooks, axes, and pitchforks, as can be satisfactorily proven, they turned to defend themselves, when the police of the Third Precinct interfered, and drove off our assailants.

Foreman of Peterson Engine Company No. 31.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN.—NOAH WATERBURY, resident of the Eastern District, and for many years President of the Williamsburgh City Bank, died at an advanced age, Saturday evening last. Out of respect for the memory of the deceased, the flags on the ferryboats and the shipping were raised at half-mast yesterday.

LECTURES ON SYRIA.—Mr. WILLIAM WHITE WILLIAMS is now delivering a course of lectures on Syria and its Customs, in the Lee-avenue Sabbath School Hall, corner of Lee-avenue and Hewes-street, Brooklyn. OUT OF HIS MIND.—An officer last night met a man in the street who inquired for Manassas Junction, and informed him that he was looking for the grand army, having been appointed by HORACE GREELEY to supersede McCLELLAN in the command, and he was going onward to Richmond as soon as the City Railroad Company had laid the tracks and opened the route to that city. The new General said his name was THORN. He was accommodated with lodgings at the Fifth Precinct Station-house until this morning, when his friends claimed him. His insanity is supposed to have been produced by reading the Tribune, or from his inability to procure one of KNOX's Spring style of hats. The charitable should take the unfortunate man to No. 212 Broadway, and present him with one, if the latter is the true cause of his aberration of mind.

COMMODORE NUTT and the BELGIAN GIANT, in the new play, "Hop O My Thumb," at Barnum's yesterday, acquitted themselves creditably. It is decidedly a rich treat for the small price of admission to the Museum. It will be played again this afternoon and evening.
